

IS THE Orient waking up? The best test is the position of women. Read this list of some of the Oriental members of the Institute of Pacific Relations in Honolulu. From China are Mrs. C. F. Wang, former president of Tsuda Women's College, Tokyo. From Korea is Miss Helen K. Kim, dean of Ewha College, Seoul, Korea. There are members of the institute old enough to remember when America could not have sent such a delegation of trained women, of equal accomplishment and distinction. And these women are not shrinking violets, either. They are able, self-reliant women, who take part in all discussions as freely as the men. Also, they are not masculine women, lost to the charm of their sex. They are precisely like American women of the same class. If the Orient has made this beginning, in this generation, with its ablest and best educated women, the future is clear.

DID you ever have a friend with a fine greenhouse, in which the chief treasure was a night-blooming cereus? Once a year, or perhaps only after several years, its blossoming was a festival. A company was invited in to see the marvel. There were breathless "ohs" and "ahs" as the great bud opened its circle of creamy petals, revealing the filmy anthers and plumed pistil, the one flower in existence which is at once imposing in size, delicate as a fairy in beauty, and sumptuous in its richness. The sight was well worth the year's care, by the host, and more than worth the evening's attention by the guests.

Well, come to Hawaii and see 20,000 of them come out on a single hedge in one night, with 10,000 the night before and after, hundreds or thousands many nights, and the 20,000 again in three weeks. A hundred thousand in a summer you could gather on that one hedge around the Punahoa School. One of the 20,000-nights was last night. Half a mile of stone wall, covered with the cactus-like shoots of the cereus, and the top and both sides bursting with thousands upon thousands of the gorgeous flowers.

Someone, who had read in a botanical book in his youth of the night-blooming cereus, and twenty years later had just missed by a day the one opportunity of a lifetime to see one in bloom, and then, still twenty years later, had at last realized his life's hope by seeing 20,000 of them at once said: "It is like suddenly presenting one with a shipload of Kohinoors."

FIVE "Generals" and 3000 armed men are reported in revolt in Vera Cruz. That is barely 600 men to a "General," which is doubtless more than the average in Mexico, though it would be only half enough for a Colonel in any modern army. And "General" Sandino, whose army was defeated by forty American marines and a few native constabulary in Nicaragua, had only 600 troops. The number of ragamuffins, down there, would have to be at least a field marshal.

And is that not the real trouble? A country in which anyone with a horse and a whole uniform is a General is also a country in which everybody wants to be at least President. The ambition to run one's business or to do one's job well is beneath the contempt of these opera-bouffe "Generals." When everybody has to be the star, there is no peaceful way to stage the play.

NEW PROHIBITION SHAKEUP ORDERED

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Another shakedown of the federal prohibition organization was ordered today by Seymour Lowman, assistant secretary of the treasury.

Maj. H. H. White, acting assistant prohibition commissioner, was transferred to the post of general supervisor for field officers.

Alfred O'Connell, San Francisco, deputy commissioner, was appointed assistant commissioner. James E. Jones, special assistant commissioner, was named deputy commissioner.

Lowman also ordered all offices of zone supervisors abolished. Major White will have supervision of field forces. They are to be reorganized on a more effective business basis, Lowman said.

County Officials Before Jury BELIEVE FOOD AGAIN TOPIC OF HEARING POSTPONEMENT OF NAVY ARMS PARLEY IN GENEVA IS DENIED

CHEF DE GARE

County Supervisor Finley And Dr. F. W. Slabaugh Heard By Investigators

GEORGE EDGAR CALLED

Man Sentenced on Larceny Charge Thought to Have Told of Alleged Beating

THE GRAND JURY is understood to have gone further today into the question of food served to prisoners in the county jail, when prominent county officials were summoned before the hearing to testify, it was understood, regarding provisions for the maintenance of county prisoners.

County Supervisor S. H. Finley, of Santa Ana, and Dr. F. W. Slabaugh, county purchasing agent, both were believed to have testified on the food question. They were reported to have told the grand jury that the allowance of 23 cents per day for feeding each prisoner, which is made by the board of supervisors to the sheriff, is one of the lowest in the state.

The allowance was reduced some time ago by the supervisors from 18 cents per meal to 14 cents per meal per prisoner. Two meals per day are served. Some counties in the state it is said, allow as much as 25 cents per meal for each prisoner. The testimony believed to have been presented to the grand jury today would indicate that the board of supervisors, rather than the sheriff or jail officials, is responsible for the quantity of food supplied prisoners.

George Edgar, well known Santa Ana merchant, called before the grand jury today. Edgar is believed to have testified that on one occasion several years ago, when he was arrested by federal officers, he was forced to sleep on the floor of the jail, without a blanket.

Beyond indicating that he had told "only the truth" and that he had been regarded by the grand jury as the "most interesting witness" who had appeared, Edgar declined to discuss his testimony. Considerable laughter was heard from behind the guarded doors of the grand jury room while Edgar was before that body.

Food was said to be the chief topic of several witnesses who testified yesterday. Among these were "Bill" Hays of Black Star canyon; C. P. Rogers, of Huntington Beach; O. Federhoff, of Santa Ana; V. M. "Buck" Hayes, of Brea, and "Bill" Rush, all at present serving sentences in the county jail.

Mrs. Eva Diebold, now serving a sentence for bigamy, was believed to have denied, in her testimony, that she had been in prison. She had access to the women's quarters in the jail.

Little Before Jury Tom Little, who was sentenced for attempted petit larceny of avocados at Lemon Heights, was understood to have told the grand jury that he received a beating in jail from Chief Criminal Deputy Sheriff Ed McClellan.

McClellan denies that he administered a "beating" to Little. He declares that he slapped Little with his open hand when Little, without provocation, directed a stream of curses at him.

E. R. Rudy, former Fullerton and Brea traffic officer; Louis J. Heffner, of Anaheim, and Joe Buchta, former Santa Ana hotel man, were waiting in the Hall of Records today to be summoned again before the grand jury. All have previously testified.

Starving Sailors Towed Into Port

SYDNEY, N. S. W., Aug. 2.—Manned by half starved sailors, who had subsisted a week on two biscuits a day each, the steamer Chillicothe, 115 days out of Astoria, Ore., was towed into port early today.

Peter, 5-months-old son of Captain Borgman, was the only person aboard who seemed in normal spirit. He weathered all trials with gay unconcern, ship's officers said.

Out of New Zealand the Chillicothe encountered mountainous seas, which endured for five weeks. As the voyage became prolonged, rations began to give out and only the genius of the cook, a man named Ayers, saved the crew from complete starvation.

Joseph A. Plank, Santa Ana, who yesterday was unanimously elected to head the California Societe Des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux.

JOSEPH PLANK NAMED HEAD OF STATE 40 ET 8

Santa Ana Man Gets High Honor at Convention In Santa Barbara

Joseph A. Plank, Santa Ana, chief de gare of the Orange county voiture of La Societe Des 40 Hommes et 8 Chevaux, yesterday afternoon was unanimously elected chief de gare of the state organization at the American Legion convention, in Santa Barbara.

Plank, who has for the last two years been at the head of the Orange county voiture of the "Forty and Eight," was chief de train of the state society.

A hard worker, Plank has been a leader of "Forty and Eight" affairs in this county for several years. He has been responsible for the success the Orange county voiture has had in the last three years, during which time it has come from obscurity to a position of prominence. The Orange county voiture is known as one of the three "liveliest" county "Forty and Eight" organizations in the United States.

Will Go To Paris Plank's election gives him complimentary passage to the American Legion convention in Paris, in September, as the state chief de gare is sent to all national conventions.

Two candidates stand out as the strongest possibilities for state commander of the American Legion. The Legion election will be held tomorrow.

Wilbur Getty, Santa Ana, commander fifth area, and Phil Dodson, commander of the South Pasadena post, are the leading candidates. It is reported from Santa Barbara.

Getty, said to be unusually strong throughout the northern part of the state and his campaign is well under way, according to a message received here today from Frank Mason, head of the Brea post, who also is in Santa Barbara. Mason stated that Maurice Enderle, Santa Ana, was in charge of Getty's campaign.

The Santa Ana delegation at the convention has been instructed to support Getty "to the last ditch" and it is believed that outside of Los Angeles county he will receive strong backing.

S. A. Delegation Colorful That Santa Ana is making a name for itself at the convention is shown in press reports from the convention city, which assert that the Santa Ana and Orange county delegations are the most colorful and noisiest in Santa Barbara.

Two of the five Congressional Medal of Honor men, who are guests of honor at the convention, are Santa Anans, Maj. N. G. Holderman, of the "Lost Battalion," and Dave Hayden.

William Murphy, Santa Ana hotel manager, yesterday received the highest vote for delegate at large to the Paris convention.

Negotiations Are Continued By Delegates

(By United Press) RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 2.—President Coolidge understands every effort will be made to reach an agreement at the Geneva disarmament conference at this time, but there will be no postponement until fall.

Mr. Coolidge has been informed, it was announced at the executive offices today, that the plenary session will be held Thursday and that in the meantime negotiations are being carried on.

Reports that the conference might adjourn until fall without reaching an agreement were emphatically denied.

GIBSON VISITS BRITISH, JAPANESE LEADERS

GENEVA, Aug. 2.—Hugh S. Gibson, chief of the American delegation to President Coolidge's naval limitations conference, visited the Japanese and British leaders today, but there was no announcement of his purpose.

The visit to the Japanese took place first and it was reported that Viscount Ishii and Baron Saito offered a conciliation proposal along the lines of the British suggestion that there be a naval holiday.

A plenary session of the conference with full representation of the Japanese, British and American delegations has been set for Thursday. The session, originally scheduled for last Monday, apparently will provide each delegation with an opportunity to state its position and to explain why it was not responsible for the difficulties which have developed here, after which the conference presumably will adjourn.

There has been no progress here toward the limitation of the cruiser class of warships. Submarines and destroyers were less difficult. The question of cruisers involved naval bases of which Britain has many widely scattered along the world's trade routes and the United States has few.

With bases from which to operate small cruisers, Britain prepared to limit the number of 10,000-ton cruisers as much as possible. The United States wanted to build 10,000-ton cruisers according to its needs, of course within the tonnage limit to be decided upon.

NO SETTLEMENT IN PEACH PRICE FIGHT

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Still persistently refusing to give or take, peach canners and growers of the state today were no nearer a solution of their controversy.

The possibility of an armistice before the entire peach crop is destroyed is considered very remote, growers' representatives said. One of the most chaotic situations in the history of the fruit industry in California has been due to the refusal of peach growers to deliver their product to canners for less than $30 a ton. The loss to the industry already has mounted to more than $1,500,000 and has forced approximately 15,000 persons out of work.

Meetings were to be held here today at the California Canning Peach Growers' association and the Canners' League of California, but it was believed that officials of the organization will have "nothing to announce" when the sessions end.

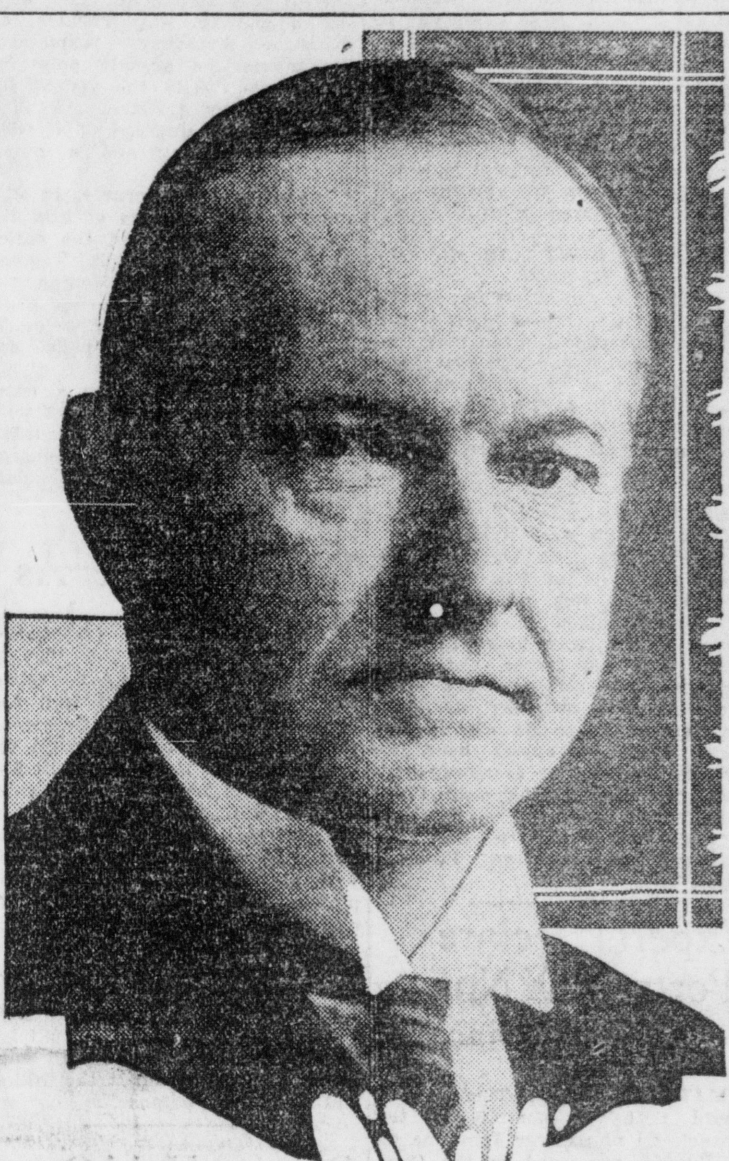

2 NEW DEATHS AS CHICAGO PROBES AVIATION ACCIDENTS

(By United Press) CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—As "gypsy aviators" flying without license—brought Chicago's air death toll to seven within nine days, county authorities invoked police powers to end a series of air crashes.

Within a mile of the spot where two other flyers leaped to death from a flaming plane Saturday, two amateur pilots lost control of the rusty plane, purchased a few hours earlier, and dropped 200 feet to death last night.

William Quase, 26, and John Hubby, 25, were the victims. Quase was taking Hubby up to teach him to fly, it is believed.

Army Flyer Killed When Chute Fails

(By United Press) MOUNT CLEMENS, Mich., Aug. 2.—Lt. Leclair D. Schulze, 36, of the 27th air squadron, Selfridge field, Mich., was killed today when a pursuit plane he was testing caught fire and fell 1400 feet.

Schulze jumped, his clothing ablaze, in an effort to save his life, but his parachute did not open until he was within 50 feet of the ground.

Selfridge field officials believe that a silk scarf Schulze wore around his neck prevented him from reaching the rip cord of the parachute.

Schulze was practicing law in Los Angeles when the war broke out. He enlisted in the air service July 5, 1917, and went to the air school at Tours, France, from which he graduated in December, 1917, with the rank of cadet.

He came to Selfridge field from Washington on April 22 of this year. He had 3100 flying hours to his credit. Air service officials said his mother lived at 216 West 45th street, Los Angeles.

PRESIDENT ANNOUNCES HIS DECISION TO STAY OUT OF 1928 WHITE HOUSE RACE

Executive's Present Strong Political Condition Makes Reason For Action Problematical

DISAPPOINTED BY NAVY PARLEY

(By United Press) RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 2.—President Coolidge announced at the summer White House this afternoon that he would not be a candidate for re-election in 1928. The announcement was made without warning at noon, Mountain time.

The president made only this brief statement: "I do not choose to run for president in 1928."

At the regular press conference earlier, Mr. Coolidge said he would have "an announcement to make at noon."

No intimation came from the temporary White House as to what it would be.

Waited for Market's Close Indications were that the president had waited until the market had closed in New York so that his statement would have no influence upon the market.

When newspapermen assembled in his schoolroom office at noon he said:

"Are you all here?" The door was locked and Everett Sanders, the president's secretary, stood guard there.

Mr. Coolidge held half a dozen slips of paper in his right hand. They were folded over so that they could not be read.

The newspapermen passed in line before him and each received a copy of the typewritten statement.

Mr. Coolidge's face was drawn and serious. He did not smile to newspapermen as he usually does. When the statements had all been handed out the United Press correspondent asked the president if he had anything additional to say. He merely shook his head. Just what prompted the statement at this time, is problematical.

Political Position Strong His political position is now as strong as it ever has been. Leaders coming here from all parts of the west have assured him that people generally were strong for him. His stay here has been pleasant and though he is in good health, furrowed lines of worry could be noticed some mornings around his eyes. Maj. James F. Coughlin, his physician, however, says his health is much improved since he came from Washington.

It is known that the apparent collapse of the Geneva disarmament conference was a deep disappointment to the president.

He indicated last Friday that he had no hope that a successful conclusion could be reached at Geneva.

Of course, failure of the disarmament meeting and implied warning that Great Britain is contemplating a much larger navy than she now has may result in curtailment of Mr. Coolidge's economic program.

This government may have to build up its navy instead of cutting down, thereby absorbing some of the funds that have during the last few years gone into debt retirement and tax reduction.

Not Yet Broken Up However, the conference has not yet formally broken up, although Mr. Coolidge made it known earlier that he had no intention of permitting the discussions to be smoothed over by adjournment until fall.

It has been reported that Mr. Coolidge cabled Hugh Gibson, head of the American delegation at Geneva, that he would countenance no such action and that the conference would stand or fall at this time.

Mr. Coolidge's deep interest in Geneva is founded not alone upon his desire to carry forward his economic program, but also because he himself called the conference and considers himself somewhat personally responsible for its success.

Politicians here pointed out that the president's statement was very diplomatically worded and does not preclude the possibility of him being drafted by his party as a candidate, against his wishes. There has been some talk of such an eventuality.

In this connection it was remarked that Mr. Coolidge's statement could put an end to "third term" opposition and remove any burden from his shoulders. If he should be drafted for another term, onus would be upon leaders who drafted him and the point of any Democratic argument against the third term party campaign might be softened.

not a 1928 candidate. His Rapid City statement was taken as definitely putting him out of the presidential race, though there were some here who suggested Coolidge might still be a candidate if the "voice of the people" demanded him loudly enough.

Immediately upon receipt of the announcement speculation as to Republican presidential possibilities began.

The names of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, Vice President Daves, Lowden and Longworth were prominently presented. Charles Evans Hughes also was mentioned, but it was recalled he had recently said he was too old to seek the presidency.

NICHOLAS LONGWORTH REFUSES TO COMMENT
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Nicholas Longworth, speaker of the house, refused to comment today when told of the statement of President Coolidge.

He also declined to discuss his own reported candidacy. Both Longworth and Senator Hiram Johnson gave evidence of surprise.

"What a surprise," Johnson declared. "I am astounded because there was every indication to the contrary. No living soul can now tell what will be done by the Republican party at the next convention. From now on the presidential race will be a free-for-all."

VICE PRESIDENT HAS "NOTHING TO SAY"
CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Vice President Charles G. Dawes knew of the president's decision, but he instructed his secretary to advise newspaper reporter that "the vice president has nothing to say" regarding the fact Mr. Coolidge has decided not to be a candidate for re-election in 1928.

BECAME PRESIDENT FOUR YEARS AGO TODAY
RAPID CITY, S. D., Aug. 2.—Four years ago, at 2 a. m., President Coolidge was inducted to the presidential office in a dramatic scene at his farm home in Vermont with his father, Col. John Coolidge, administering the oath.

Today, in a no less dramatic and simple scene at his schoolroom executive offices here, he silently handed out to newspapermen the slip bearing only these typewritten words: "I do not choose to run for president in Nineteen Twenty-eight."

Experts Declare Portrait Of Nun Real Velasquez
MADRID, Aug. 2.—There is no doubt that the portrait of the Franciscan nun Sister Jeronima de la Puente, preserved in the Convent of Santa Isabel in Toledo, at present on view in the Francisco exhibition in Madrid, is a genuine Velasquez and, moreover, the earliest known portrait painted by the master. Experts have examined the picture and the signature and pronounced them genuine.

Try New Reform Method In Prison
SAN QUENTIN, Calif., Aug. 2.—One of the outstanding prison reforms in recent years is being tested at San Quentin penitentiary with 188 prisoners under 23 years of age occupying cells in a recently completed building separate from the main part of the prison.

Under the new arrangement the young first offenders do not have to associate with the hardened criminals. They have been assigned to the cells in pairs and care has been taken to see that the boys with similar dispositions are placed together.

Chinese Troops In Wuhu Stronghold
WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Chinese troops of the Hankow faction occupied the Standard Oil company compound at Wuhu yesterday, according to advices today to the navy department from Rear Adm. C. S. Williams, who added that efforts were being made to obtain evacuation. Williams reported that about 5000 troops and two airplanes reached Wuhu July 30, making the total forces in that Hankow stronghold about 60,000.

Griffin's Flight Entry Is Accepted
SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—The entry of Bennett Griffin, Oklahoma City aviator, in the airplane race between the Pacific coast and Honolulu, which starts August 12, was officially recognized today by Frank A. Flynn, chairman of the contest committee. Griffin, the tenth to enter the event, will pilot a Travelair monoplane equipped with a Wright whirlwind motor and with a gasoline capacity of 425 gallons.

Colorado River Meeting Called
PHOENIX, Ariz., Aug. 2.—A joint meeting of the California and Arizona Colorado river commissions will be held here Thursday, Mulford Windsor, secretary of the Arizona body, announced today. Windsor stated that he called the meeting, at which problems involved in the development of the Colorado river will be discussed, following receipt of a telegram from the California commission asking for a conference.

BOY IS HELD AFTER DEATH BATTLE 1600 MILES AT SEA

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Aug. 2.—Joseph Roberts, 18-year-old galle boy, of Youngstown, O., was being held here today on suspicion of murder in connection with a bloody battle that ended in death on the S. S. Chucky, 1600 miles south of this port.

Roberts was taken into custody when the oil tanker docked here. The slender, timid youth, who fired the galle stove and scrubbed the pots and kettles, is alleged to have beaten to death James Bernico, 35, burly oiler, according to the story told federal authorities by the skipper of the Chucky.

"At dawn July 2, Roberts removed ashes from the galley stove and heaved them over the side. A stiff wind blew them back into the face of Bernico and the battle started," the captain said.

"For four hours the ill-matched pair fought on the tossing deck, while the crew forgot sleep to watch the struggle. None interfered."

Both were nearly exhausted when the captain came on the bridge and belled for discipline. A final blow from the fist of the galle boy sent Bernico sprawling to the steel deck. He struck his head as he fell.

Bernico died and his body was buried at sea, while young Roberts was placed in irons.

He will be turned over to federal authorities.

CLAIMS POISONING WAS ACCIDENTAL

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—"The coffee can was on the sink. I was using the ant paste and knocked my shoulder on the cupboard door. The ant paste fell into the coffee can. I washed out the coffee can and thought all the poison was gone."

With this statement, made after severe grilling, Ray Tayama, 41 Japanese houseboy, "explained" the mysterious arsenic poisoning which resulted in the violent illness of Leroy Armstrong, wealthy Glendale manufacturer, his wife, Muriel Armstrong and a nurse, Mrs. M. Wolff.

Though he had previously disclaimed all knowledge of how the deadly arsenic reached the coffee which the three drank, Tayama finally admitted the poisoning was "accidental" after a two-day grilling by Detective Lt. Charles T. Blake, of the Glendale police department.

Tayama is now under a complaint formally charging him with poisoning with attempt to murder. He will be arraigned on the charge before Judge Lowe, of the Glendale police department.

Brands Dreher As LeBoeuf Murderer
FRANKLIN, La., Aug. 2.—"Silent Jim" Beadle, talking at last, has branded Dr. Thomas E. Dreher as the murderer of Jim LeBoeuf, for whose slaying Beadle, Dr. Dreher and Mrs. Ida LeBoeuf are on trial.

In a written confession, given Sheriff Charles Pecot, the trapper of the bayous charged Dr. Dreher with shooting down LeBoeuf, ripping open his body, weighting the corpse with railroad angle irons and forcing Beadle, under threat of death, to help sink it in Lake Falourde.

He charged, too, that the lawyers retained by Dr. Dreher tried to persuade this hard lipped man of the thickets to admit the killing and claim self defense.

Quartet Held On Charges Of Theft
LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Two men and two women were being held in jail here today awaiting extradition proceedings in connection with the theft of $100,000 from the Harrison Kennedy Insurance company of Fort Worth, Texas.

The four, Jack Lane, Dr. L. M. Driver, Mrs. Mary Lane and Hilda Bran, were taken into custody as they attempted to cash negotiable securities, believed to be property of the insurance company.

Ottawa Welcomes Prince And Party

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 2.—The formal welcome to the Prince of Wales, Prince George, Prime Minister Baldwin and Mrs. Baldwin to the Canadian capital opened auspiciously at noon today.

Under bright skies and with the city decorated, the royal party stepped from the train to be greeted by the Governor General and Lady Willingdon, Premier King, cabinet ministers, Major General Thacker and Major Balharrie, of Ottawa.

It was an international function local and foreign officials permanently in the capital being augmented by countless delegates from 43 countries represented at the World's Poultry congress, in session here.

"DICK" HYLAND IS WANTED ON MORE CHARGES

Arrested here on five different charges within the past several weeks, and released on bail just yesterday from the county jail, the troubles of Barney Wrottenberg, 42, who claims to be the famous "Fighting Dick" Hyland, pugilist of note a generation ago, are far from over.

While waiting in the jail yesterday for bail of $50 which would release him on a charge of breach of the peace, the charge being made in Los Angeles, Wrottenberg was served with papers charging him with failure to appear on a speed ticket at San Juan Capistrano. Bail of $500 was asked on this charge, which "Barney" made.

At the same time, Yoder said he had received instructions to arrest Wrottenberg on a charge of speeding and reckless driving in San Diego county. Wrottenberg was out on bail when this request reached Santa Ana and he has not been arrested on that count.

Wrottenberg is scheduled to appear on the San Juan Capistrano charge on August 5, at 2 p. m. He is said to have been speeding 72 miles an hour at the time of his arrest several days ago. Wrottenberg said he was actually going 86 miles an hour, but that the officer was "nice" to him and cut the ticket down to 72 miles an hour.

A denial that Wrottenberg really is the prize fighter of a generation ago who led the lightweight division and that he may be assuming as much was received here today from Fresno with the announcement that the real "Dick" Hyland has been and is now a fireman for the City of Fresno and is a hoseman at station No. 6.

The Fresno news comes from the United Press who investigated a report that Wrottenberg was not "Fighting Dick" Hyland. Wrottenberg could not be located today to be interviewed on the Fresno dispatch.

Burning Boat Was Fisherman's Craft
SAN PEDRO, Calif., Aug. 2.—Reports of a disaster at sea, in which a yacht and its occupants had been lost, were dissipated here today by Dominick Tamith, a fisherman, whose return to this port solved a burning yesterday off Catalina Island. While members of the Coast Guard sought for the occupants of a "yacht," Tamith was picked up by another fishing boat, after his fishboat, the "Vis" was destroyed in an explosion.

TRUCK DRIVER HELD UP BY AUTO BANDIT

A bandit who operated while his partner sat in a machine a short distance away, robbed C. E. Wray, Orange truck driver, of $42, yesterday near Cypress, according to a report filed with authorities.

Wray left Santa Ana for the Richfield refinery at Hynes, and had reached a point just this side of the county line when he was stopped by a man in the road, who ordered him to stop.

The holdup was staged amid heavy traffic, a number of cars passing without the occupants noticing what was going on at the side of the road.

Following the holdup, the bandit calmly joined his confederate and rode away.

DAUGHTERS OF VETS TO HEAR L. A. SPEAKER

Mrs. F. B. Harrington, well known Los Angeles clubwoman and prominent in the activities of the Daughters of the Confederacy, will address the veterans and daughters of the Confederacy at a meeting to be held next Thursday afternoon, August 4, at 2 o'clock in the Community House of the First Christian church, corner of Sixth and Broadway.

According to R. S. Kimberlin, 606 South Main street, member of the Santa Ana camp of Confederate veterans, Mrs. Harrington will speak under the auspices of that organization. Her subject will be "World Peace." It was pointed out, however, that her address will be no reference to the League of Nations nor does she advocate any international arrangements which would interfere with the sovereign powers and liberty of action of the republic.

Special seats will be reserved for the members of the Grand Army of the Republic, who are invited as special guests, and for the Santa Ana veterans of the Confederacy. In addition to these reservations, the meeting is open to the general public, it was announced by Kimberlin.

SAYS NOT GUILTY OF LIQUOR CHARGE

C. J. Biere, 28, charged with possession of liquor, following his arrest Saturday when officers are said to have found 30 pints of liquor in the rear of his washing machine repair shop, on East Fourth street, pleaded not guilty when brought before City Recorder J. F. Talbot, in police court yesterday.

Bail was fixed at $300, which Biere made, and his trial set for 10 a. m., August 4.

Officers also located what they believed to have been Biere's "customer list," while searching the building.

Auto, Not Dance Hall, Is Modern Trap For Girls

DENVER, Aug. 2.—The dance hall as a menace to young girls today is replaced by night auto rides, according to Staff Capt. Lillian Goodwin, who has arrived in Denver to take charge of the rescue home of the Salvation Army, after being at the head of the Los Angeles home for 20 years.

"A young girl wants excitement and a good time. A man comes along in a big car and offers her a ride—she goes with him. The men in those big cars are not angels. That's the story behind most of the cases of unmarried mothers who come to us in their predicament."

The world has changed greatly in the matter of tolerance to girls in such a plight, Miss Goodwin said. Even the parents of the girls often take the young mother and her babe—a thing unheard of 20 years ago. According to Miss Goodwin, too much freedom is the cause of the downfall of many girls.

The Denver home can accommodate 35 girls at one time. It has been open since last November and is modern in equipment. Three Salvation Army captains and a graduate nurse compose the staff at the home. Adjt. Maude Lee, who has been in charge in Denver, has taken Miss Goodwin's place in the Los Angeles home.

Tourists Pass Up Champagne Drink

ASCOT, Eng., Aug. 2.—"No one drinks champagne any more," warned the maid presiding over the destinies of the wine bar at Ascot track, during England's big racing week.

"It's all so quiet. Look at all these people here. Top hats and patent leather shoes, but they don't buy champagne."

Suddenly there was a rush to the bar and the popping of corks sounded like a machine gun barrage. At least 20 bottles of champagne were opened in as many minutes.

"They're not British," said the barmaid.

COLONEL FINLEY NAMED TO REPRESENT SANTA ANA AT COLORADO RIVER MEETING

Steps looking toward the formation of a metropolitan water district to finance and operate a proposed Colorado river aqueduct will be taken at a meeting of the Colorado River Aqueduct Association, to be held next Saturday, August 6, at Casa Blanca hotel, Ontario, beginning at 10 o'clock, it was announced today by officers of the association.

Colonel S. H. Finley, secretary of the association, has been named by the city council to represent the city of Santa Ana at the meeting.

In issuing a call for the meeting, Hiram W. Wadsworth, of Pasadena, president of the association, calls attention to the fact that the time is now ripe for action under the newly adopted Metropolitan Water District Act. It will be the purpose of the meeting, he adds, to ascertain to the greatest possible extent what area shall be included in the initial ordinance, and also to determine how the preliminary expenses shall be met.

Four major phases of the Colorado river aqueduct work will be considered at the meeting, it was stated.

First, chief engineer William Mulholland of the Los Angeles Water bureau is scheduled to inform the association of the progress that he and his assistants have thus far made in carrying forward the preliminary stages of the aqueduct project.

Second, the association's legislative committee, headed by W. B. Mathews, special counsel of the Los Angeles Water and Power Department and James H. Howard, former city attorney of Pasadena, will explain the legal phases of the district organization.

Third, one of the cases scheduled to join in the district will be selected to adopt a city ordinance providing for the establishment of the Metropolitan water district, in accordance with the procedure laid down in the enabling act.

This ordinance will outline the geographical limits of the district and will specify the cities to be included. Elections will later be held in each of the cities named in the ordinance to determine whether or not that municipality is to join the district.

Fourth, the association is expected to authorize the launching of a friendly suit with the view of testing out the constitutionality of the Metropolitan Water District Act.

WHOOPING COUGH IS REPORTED IN COUNTY

There are many cases of whooping cough throughout the county at the present time, according to Dr. V. G. Presson, county health officer. This disease, Dr. Presson explained, is serious in its immediate effects, and its occurrence in a child not only greatly lowers his general physical resistance but predisposes him to tuberculosis. It is characterized by spasmodic coughing, the health officer added, which may or may not be accompanied by the well known whoop and end with vomiting.

He stressed the fact that it is not true that all little children must have whooping cough. Parents themselves, he stated, may give the most effective help in preventing its occurrence. Any cough in a child is suspicious and that child should be isolated from other children until it is known whether he is developing whooping cough. This development with accompanying symptoms occurs about 14 days after exposure.

Dr. Presson further added that whooping cough will greatly interfere with school attendance during the fall and winter months unless cases registered now are carefully isolated.

NURSERY SCHOOL OPENS AT LAGUNA

LAGUNA BEACH, Aug. 2.—A nursery school has been established in Laguna Beach with 16 children as pupils from the ages of two to five. Miss Isabel Martin, who is a graduate of the University of California at Los Angeles in the training department for nursery school teachers, is the teacher.

Using the grounds of the Woman's club for this summer, the nursery school has become one of the really interesting things of the town and many people stop and look for a moment or two at the rollicking youngsters in the sand piles or on the swings and slide.

Much preliminary work was necessary before the school became a reality. Plenty of opposition developed and much propaganda was necessary to convince the parents of very young children that sending them to school was anything but foolish. Noted educators, however, presented their views and the school was finally started last week. Three physicians give morning inspections and no child is allowed to remain at school if there is the slightest chance for contributing to the ill health of other children.

Inside the clubhouse tiny tables, chairs, easels and stools make up the furniture and in one corner a doll's house may be seen. Everything is for the children. The furniture and everything else, including the teaching, is for the very young child. As this nursery school idea is a new one and consequently exposed to much comment, there is a lot of speculation as to just how the children like it. A visit to the school dispelled any doubts as to the children's enjoyment of the morning hours. They go to the nursery school from 9 to 12 and cry when obliged to go home. There is but little trouble among the children and they are quickly becoming accustomed to giving in to each other and waiting their turn.

APPROVE PLANS FOR NEW BEACH LIGHT SYSTEM

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 2.—Plans and specifications for the ornamental street lighting system on Main street from Ocean avenue to Mansion avenue were approved by the city council last night and City Clerk F. R. Furr was authorized to advertise for bids.

It is estimated that the system will cost in the neighborhood of $35,000.

All city employees must live within the city limits, the council making a ruling to this effect last night.

The fire department was authorized to send two delegates to the firemen's convention at Stockton this month.

The trash contractors will be given two more weeks in which to remedy methods of collecting trash. Unless improvements are noted the city will secure other parties to do the work, it was decided last night.

RHODE ISLAND RED CHICKENS STOLEN

Further clues as to the identity of Orange county's "red" chicken thieves, who have become notorious because of the fact that only Rhode Island Red chickens are stolen, were revealed today with the robbery last night of the Arch Brown chicken pen. West Fifth street and the Newhope road. Sixty-five red chickens were taken.

A report of the robbery was made to the sheriff's office today and an investigation is under way, being made by Deputy Sheriff H. W. Howard.

That the thieves have resorted to working without shoes became apparent today when officers found barefoot tracks near the pens.

The tracks of three men were found, officers reported. The chickens taken were all young fowls, it was said.

Discover Gold In Chicken's Crow

OLYMPIA, Wash., Aug. 2.—Sitting in the kitchen as his wife was preparing two chickens for Sunday dinner, J. D. Walker discussed the Nevada gold discovery. Just then, removing the crow of one of the hens, Mrs. Walker found it had contained five gold nuggets. Another was found in the second chicken.

Search is being made for the ranch from which the chickens were originally bought. Boys "playing miner" recently discovered gold along the beach near Moclip, believed to have been washed up by the storms in January. It may have been in this region that the hens picked up the nuggets.

Matches Match Color Of Dresses

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Mayfair's latest is a craze for odd color schemes.

A Bond street tobacconist, commenting on it, said: "Every day I sell dozens of boxes of the new color tipped matches. Half a dozen shades are packed in one box. Women sort them out to match their frocks or the various rooms in the house. In round cardboard boxes, these big-headed matches look like a child's drawing crayons with blunted points.

Even the typewriters sold in Bond street are now varnished a cheerful red, green, blue or mauve. Most society women own a portable typewriter. They like the machine and cover to harmonize with their boudoir hangings.

Sour Stomach

"Phillips Milk of Magnesia" Better than Soda

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly. For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. It neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges the souring waste from the system without purging. Besides, it is more pleasant to take than soda. Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles, any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Charles H. Phillips, since 1875.

Mrs. J. H. Ashley and Miss Ruth Langley Leave for Mexico

Mrs. J. H. Ashley (Ida Griset), who has been spending the summer in Santa Ana at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Griset, of 1414 South Main street, left Sunday for her home at Fresno, California. Accompanying her was Miss Ruth Langley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Langley, of 802 Lacy street. Miss Langley plans to spend a month in Mexico, dividing her time between Fresno and Mexico City.

Preceding their departure for Mexico, Miss Langley entertained several of their sorority sisters (Delta Zeta) from the University of California at Los Angeles, where Mrs. Ashley also attended school.

On Thursday night a delightful dinner was served at the Rose Arbor Tea Room on North Main street. Following the dinner the guests adjourned to Miss Langley's home, where a jolly evening was spent in reminiscing over school days.

The guests remained over night at the Langley home and early on Friday morning the group departed for Balboa Beach, where a swim and a picnic lunch and supper on the sands whiled away the pleasant hours. In the evening the girls attended the dance at the Balboa pavilion, returning to Santa Ana, where they again spent the night at the Langley home.

Guests included Miss Marion Quigley, of Los Angeles, Miss Kate Quigley, of Illinois, Miss Eva Rudback, of Honolulu, Miss Hazel Rudback, of San Pedro, and Miss Esther Hodge, of Torrance.

Sunday Musicals Planned for S. A. Country Club

An item in the August social calendar of the Santa Ana Country club which has just been issued states that the monthly informal dance will not be held this month as has been the custom in the past. Warm weather has been quoted as the reason for this decision, according to the managers of the club.

Taking the place of the dance, however, there will be a Sunday afternoon musicale and concert, August 21, from 4:30 o'clock to 6:30 o'clock.

Isabel Bowen, popular radio and vaudeville artist will arrange the program. Miss Bowen will be assisted by Ralph Riky, tenor, who has just completed a season with the Mission playhouse was presented at Sanckett Kellogg, composer and concert pianist who is affiliated with Louis Gravenor for the summer concert period, will also be present and give several numbers.

On Wednesday afternoon, August 17, the monthly bridge will be held. Attractive prizes have been procured for the occasion and it was announced that throughout the afternoon punch and wafers would be served.

For those who desire luncheon it will be served in the solarium from 12:30 until 2 o'clock. It has been requested that those desiring to take advantage of the afternoon's entertainment make reservations with the management.

ONCE PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE IS DEAD

CHELTENHAM, England, Aug. 2.—Victoria Clafin Woodhull Martin, author and pioneer suffragist, who once ran for president of the United States, died here recently. Mrs. Martin's death occurred at her home, North Park. She died in her sleep, apparently about midnight.

Mrs. Victoria Clafin Woodhull Martin, born in Homer, Ohio, in 1838, made her home in England from the time of her marriage to John Bidolph Martin of Overbury Court, England, who died in 1897. Her first husband was Dr. Canning Woodhull, who died in 1874.

She was nominated for the presidency in 1875 by the Equal Rights party. For 30 years she carried on a continuous campaign in the interests of the working classes both in the United States and Europe and in 1870 memorialized the American congress for woman's suffrage. Her publications include "The Origin, Tendencies and Principles of Government," "Social Freedom" and "The Human Body, the Temple of God."

BENDEL PRESENTS NEW MODES FOR MOUNTAIN VACATIONS

AT THE LEFT, A STURDY TWEED SPORTS COAT FOR LATE SUMMER AND FALL VACATION WEAR. RIGHT, A SWEATER SUIT THAT COMBINES PRACTICABILITY WITH INDIVIDUALITY. BOTH ARE DESCRIBED IN THE ACCOMPANYING ARTICLE BY HENRI BENDEL.

BY HENRI BENDEL
For NEA Service

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—August will bring a change in vacation location for many families if this summer runs true to form.

Most women, after six weeks or two months in even the smartest watering resorts, seem to desire a change. Tennis and golf lose their allure and the zest seems to have fled from bathing and sailing.

And so the last span of the summer finds many persons deserting famous seashore places and taking to the woods, the mountains or even to the rough life of western ranches.

As they change their abodes, of course they must change their clothes. The new environment calls for a different type. Seashore clothes may be pastel shaded and fragile. But camping and roughing it demand a certain hardness in attire to harmonize.

Tweeds and Such

Materials for the mountains or woods or ranch differ from those for seashore clothes. So are the colors. Tweeds, twills, whipcords, homespuns and other sturdy materials supplant the colored silk dresses and floating chiffons. Colors are deeper.

I show today a tweed sports coat that combines practicability with charm in a manner ideal for the chill of the Rockies or Maine. Its color suggests the woods, a deep green of the pines, combined with lynx fur.

In its simple fullness and its flaring surplice closing it suggests the autumnal change in styles that will come. The plain, straight coat with regulation opening will be passe this fall. Plain cuffs and the straight sleeve. The coat is lined with tan crepe de chine.

The hat I have designed for this

WINTERSBURG

WINTERSBURG, Aug. 2.—The Wintersburg Men's club and the Blaylock tract indoor baseball teams met Friday afternoon on the Wintersburg ball diamond. The score was 40 to 23 in favor of the Wintersburg team. The personnel of the Wintersburg team is as follows: Horace Moore, Clinton Brush, L. L. Russell, Don McMillen, Loren Mullen, E. Ray Moore, Ray Breeding, V. Breeding and William Slater. Members of the Blaylock tract team are Mr. Womeldorf, Mr. Dockendorf, W. DeLaVine, Ray Fox, Roy Fox, Joe Friend, Mr. Shultz, M. Downing and Mr. Feasel.

Mrs. Cary and Alice Slater visited with friends in Los Angeles over Sunday and Monday.

The Misses Isabel Russell and June Slater left Saturday to spend a week at the Queen Esther camp at Pacific Palisades.

E. Ray Moore and family, Horace Moore and family and Mr. Shostag and family went to Balboa Saturday evening for the tournament of lights.

Mr. and Mrs. Dean and daughter, of Fresno, called at the W. W. Blaylock home Tuesday afternoon. The Deans, who have been touring California since the latter part of May, will return to their home in Fresno about the first of September.

The congregation of the Wintersburg M. E. church was given a rare treat Sunday evening when the Rev. Byram, a missionary, gave an illustrated lecture on Korea. The Rev. Mr. Byram is home on a furlough from Korea, where he was a missionary for the past five years.

Saturday, Mesdames E. M. Fox, D. Russell and William Slater and members of the Queen Esther society of the Wintersburg M. E. church took their lunch and mocostume is two shades of green. Its mushroom shape presages the autumnal style in headgear. While the new hats will give shade to the eyes they will be more conservative in their brim sizes than summer hats. The velvet touch of deep green for banding and edging gives a satisfying richness and neatness at the same time.

A Sweater Suit

The other costume I show today is a Patou model of sweater suit that is quite appropriate for afternoon mountain or ranch wear—that time when a woman wants to be feminine looking, but still appropriately dressed to climb a peak if necessary or tramp for a snap-shot or so.

As sweater suits become almost as ubiquitous as felt hats I find pressing necessity for individuality. The woman who cares for her attire demands a touch of "something different."

This sweater gives it in its novelty wool and silk weave, which is hard like a fine homespun. Its colors shade from beige to yellow and then deep rose.

Wards Off the Sun

The rose skirt is prodigal in the generous depth of its double box pleats. The scarf of two shades of rose wards off the sun from Milady's neck or adds a bit of warmth, as desired.

The rose felt hat really has a double brim. While one turns down accommodatingly to give the eyes desired shade, the other turns back to form the tailored looking banding around the crown.

This double brim treatment also is another sign of autumn styles. For as usual, the latest styles of one season hint broadly enough of the next season's modes, so that no shocking break comes in the continuity of fashions.

Santa Ana Young People Announce Date of July Wedding

The wearing of her wedding ring at an inopportune moment led Mrs. Leslie W. Stone, formerly Miss Dorothy Bain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Bain, of 1530 West Sixth street, to unconsciously reveal the fact that her wedding was an event of the past instead of the future as her many friends had supposed.

The marriage was to have been held in September, but unforeseen events caused the young people to move the date of the wedding two months ahead. The ceremony was performed in Long Beach July 15 with Mr. and Mrs. Ben Beasley, of this city, acting as attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone plan to leave on their postponed honeymoon some time in September, when Mr. Stone will have a vacation from his duties with the Union Oil company. Mrs. Stone came to Santa Ana six years ago since when she has made many friends here.

Not knowing that the wedding had already taken place, a number of friends of Miss Bain have been complimenting her with showers and parties. One of recent date was a luncheon and surprise shower held for her at the home of her aunt, Mrs. Nat Neff, by Mrs. Neff, Mrs. W. H. Dennis of Orange, Mrs. J. Hartman of Lincoln, Neb., Mrs. L. H. Neff, Mrs. Ray Couch, Mrs. Barry McPhee and Mrs. C. A. Bain.

Lovely dahlias were used in decorating the living rooms and luncheon tables. Miss Bain first understood that she was the honor guest when Little Miss Betty Neff carried in a huge cake decorated with a miniature bride and groom, and set it before her. The cake had been baked and decorated for the occasion by Miss Joy McPhee.

Soon afterwards Miss Bain was again surprised when Little Miss Betty brought in a basket heaped high with gifts for the supposed bride-elect. The afternoon was spent in hemming and embroidering towels for Mrs. Stone's hope chest.

Bride-elect Honored At Bridge Tea

Miss Mary Geyer who is soon to become the bride of Theodore Gilbank was complimented late last week at a delightful bridge tea given in her honor by Mrs. Worth Alexander of Tustin.

Mrs. Alexander had arranged huge baskets of dahlias and zenias throughout the living rooms of her charming home. Predominate colors being pink and yellow which color scheme was carried out later in the afternoon when the refreshments were served.

When scores were tallied it was found that Mrs. James Dixon was high with Mrs. Carson Smith low. Each was awarded a dainty gift.

In her duties as hostess Mrs. Alexander was assisted by her sister, Miss Easter Drake.

Guests included Miss Geyer, Miss Drake, Mrs. Carson Smith, Mrs. Harold Dresser, Miss Caroline Finley, Mrs. Dale Pickering, Mrs. James Dixon, Mrs. Harry LeBar.

Leaves Nothing To Wife In Will

WASHINGTON, Aug. 2.—Says the will of Henry White, former diplomat, bequeathing Mrs. White: "There is nothing that I could leave her that would adequately compensate her for my love and affection for her." The will, disposing of more than one million dollars, leaves the widow nothing. Provision was made for her during her husband's lifetime.

CANYON FOREST FIRE IS FALSE REPORTS SHOW

From the lookout station on Saddleback, a fire is a fire, and consequently, when W. J. Gould set fire to the barley stubble in a field three miles south of the Orange county park yesterday, a report of a forest fire circulated through the county. Bert Stephenson, forest supervisor, made a hurried trip to the scene to investigate, it was reported, and the Irvine ranch sent a man to the spot for the same purpose.

Although Gould is said to have notified the Irvine authorities that he intended to burn the stubble yesterday, they were in doubt as to the location of his proposed conflagration. To make sure, an investigation was made. The fire, having burned all the stubble Gould desired to destroy, is now a thing of the past.

Although Orange county has had no forest fires this summer, it was feared yesterday that the record had been destroyed and the telephone wires between Santa Ana and the various forestry officials were kept hot in an effort to learn the particulars of the blaze.

COUNTY COAST CITY C. C. HEADS TO MEET

The organization of Orange county coast city chamber of commerce officials to be effected at a meeting August 14 at the Southern Seas club will have for its two main objects, the furtherance of coast highway development and the advertising of the recreational facilities of the various coast cities. Such was the tentative agreement reached by a group of secretaries of the Orange county coast cities who met with F. W. Slabaugh, county publicity chairman, at the Southern Seas club last night.

A committee was named to perfect the organization. At the next meeting, J. P. Greeley, president of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county will be asked to preside.

Presidents of the various chambers and civic boosters in each community will be asked to become active in the association, it is understood.

LATE RALLY GIVES LATHROP WIN, 5-4

After being held to one hit in six innings, the pesky Julia C. Lathrop junior high school Playgrounds closed in on Ray Bradfield, tied the score in the last of the seventh and made two more in the eighth to trip the Court-house, 5 to 4, at Lincoln park yesterday.

The Parliamentarians scored one in the eighth and apparently had the situation in hand going into the last part of the overtime tiff, but Lindley came along with a hit and Garlock drew a pass. An infield out and a single by Pitcher Leo Gaspar, who thus won his own game, settled the hash of the Court-house. The score:

C. OF C. GOLFING TOURNEY PROPOSED

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 2.—Golfers of Orange county who are members of chambers of commerce in the various cities in the county will have an opportunity to show their wares when a challenge tournament being worked up by a committee of the local chamber is started, according to action of the chamber yesterday.

The three leading banks of the city have pledged themselves to put up a suitable first prize. Other prizes are to be awarded by various organizations and business firms.

The committee appointed to plan the tournament numbers Charles Patton, Elson Conrad, J. K. McDonald, Dale Peters and L. C. Denlow.

In connection with the tournament, the committee was delegated to arrange for the installation of a putting green on the triangular park north of the city hall.

Albacore Catch Is 500 Pounds

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 2.—More than 500 pounds of albacore was landed on the Huntington Beach pier recently when a party of three officials of the Union Oil company returned from a fishing cruise off the local beach.

The huge catch of the large fish was snagged in one day by K. A. Hoxie, local superintendent for the company, F. W. Lake, superintendent at Brea, and E. F. Carruthers, local official.

Twelve of the fish were brought in. The smallest weighed over 30 pounds. The party were passengers on a boat operated by "Dutch" Bergman.

MANY NAMES SUGGESTED AS SUCCESSOR TO JERNIGAN IN EVENT HE ABANDONS OFFICE

Aside from reports of the probable testimony of witnesses called before the county grand jury investigating charges of irregularities in the conduct of the county jail, today interest centered in gossip as to who might be selected as sheriff should the investigation lead either to Jernigan's resignation or recall. This talk all has to do with the word "if." "If" Jernigan resigns; "if" the grand jury does or does not do this or that. Jernigan himself says he has no intention of resigning.

Of interest also are reports that federal investigation into the sheriff's office of this county have taken a slump. Some of the federal authorities and their assistants are reported to have been quarreling among themselves over some of the methods used in the investigations and in relation to the credibility of some of the chief accusers.

The "ifs" in the Jernigan situation naturally, encompass possible results of the grand jury hearing now in progress with relation to tenancy of the sheriff's office. "If" Sheriff Jernigan should resign; or "if" Sheriff Jernigan should be ousted, who would be chosen to fill his office? No less than seven answers to this question have been suggested.

Many Mentioned Prominently mentioned as most likely for appointment by the board of supervisors to fill the vacancy that might occur in the sheriff's office are Ralph McFadden, Placentia rancher, once a candidate for the office at the primaries; Frank Mason, of Brea, active leader in American Legion affairs, and Captain Henry C. Meehan, of the state traffic squad in Orange county.

Former Sheriff C. E. Jackson's name also has been discussed in the political gossip whirling around the jail investigation. Dan Adams, member of the state traffic squad; Chief of Police J. C. Rogers, of Santa Ana; Chief of Police Jack Tinsley, of Huntington Beach, one of the police veterans of the county, and O. K. Carr, of Santa Ana, former traffic officer, and like McFadden, once a candidate for nomination as sheriff, are other names heard here and there.

Whether all or any of them would be actual candidates if the appointment came up has not been verified, as open campaigning is at present obviously premature. It is known, however, that several are keeping a vigilant eye on the big "if."

Rumors that Sheriff Jernigan would resign have been so persistent for several days that they began to attract serious attention. But Jernigan to day issued positive denial that he would resign, or that he had ever considered resigning.

Will Not Resign "I know of no reason why I should resign," he said, simply. That would seem to dispose of the resignation talk, but gossip still insisted on speculation regarding the possible outcome of the grand jury investigation, should the charges of misconduct of the jail be sustained. There was no disposition, apparently, to predict that the charges would be sustained. It was merely a discussion of the "if," aroused by the persistent rumors that the sheriff intended to resign.

It was pointed out that the grand jury has authority to recommend legal action by the district attorney to cause removal of the sheriff from office on three possible grounds: nonfeasance in office, misfeasance in office, or malfeasance in office; the first meaning failure to perform the duties of office, the second relating to wrongful performance of such duties, while the third means performance of illegal acts in office.

If such charges were preferred by the district attorney, on instruction from the grand jury, it would be the duty of the superior court to pass upon the case. Should the court sustain the charges, it would declare the office vacant, whereupon it would be the duty of the board of supervisors to appoint a successor to serve until the next election, it was said.

Emphatically it was pointed out today that so far, the grand jury has been hearing but one side of a question. How much credence has been given the witnesses, of course, does not appear.

Reports of what has been going on before the grand jury necessarily have been incomplete. No one is in a position to forecast accurately the conclusions of the grand jury, particularly when it is remembered that as yet the defense has had no opportunity to make its showing. Indictments for perjury against some of the witnesses already heard are possibilities, should the sheriff present testimony warranting grand jury action along that line.

In general, therefore, the feeling among those who have been following the situation closely is that conjectures as to who might be Jernigan's successor, should he not serve out his term, are premature.

BLACK EYE BEAN HARVEST TO BE 100,000 BAGS

Although weather conditions have not been satisfactory for blackeye beans in Orange county this year, it is expected that the crop will amount to 100,000 bags, equalling the output of last year. William C. Jerome, auditor of Orange county, announced today.

Rain, although plentiful, came at the wrong time during the present season and the recent warm weather is bringing the beans to maturity before the maximum development has been reached, said Jerome. Last year both rain and warm weather came at the right time and it was an ideal bean year.

Slightly larger acreage will result in the present harvest reaching the mark set last year. There are 20,000 acres of blackeye beans in Orange county this summer while the last season is said to have been a trifle under this figure.

Jerome declared that the bean yield all over the state will be light because weather conditions generally have not been best for that crop.

The Irvine ranch, on which approximately half of the blackeye acreage is located, will start harvesting within the next two weeks, ranch officials announced today. An estimate of the effect of the hot weather this summer is being made there but as yet no definite conclusions have been reached.

L. B. BAND TO PLAY AT MT. LOWE TAVERN

On Monday, August 15, the famous Long Beach Municipal band will give a concert at Mount Lowe Tavern. This will be known as the Long Beach Band day.

Under the direction of Herbert L. Clark the band will render some of the selections that have made this band a great favorite by all who have been fortunate enough to hear it at the regular daily concerts at Long Beach, as well as those who listen to it over the radio.

The band would like to meet all friends and well wishers on the above date at the tavern, and an opportunity will be given to become personally acquainted with the members of this wonderful organization.

Mr. Clark will render a cornet solo and it is said he has no equal as a cornet soloist anywhere. The band will play "The Lindbergh March" written by George Tyler, the assistant director of the band.

You are invited to be there on this big day and enjoy the music as it will sound away up in the mountain.

We are well re-paid

Some years ago, we started things by Pasteurizing milk. Certain folks wondered how we would get repaid. The increased patronage soon did it.

Now we are starting many by helping all our producers to cut-out affected cows. All of the milk we sell comes from NON-REACTING TUBERCULIN TESTED cows. Many people are wondering how we will be repaid.

We have unlimited confidence in the good sense of the women of Orange County. This better milk will cost our customers no more than doubtful milk. And we will have many new patrons from among those who care. Thus will we be repaid in the course of years.

Facts About Investment Trusts Every Investor Should Know

"No department of investment deserves greater attention from the American public than that relating to investment trusts," said A. E. Davies, a noted British economist, recently.

The organization of a steadily growing number of these institutions and the attractive opportunities offered by the shares of property operated trusts, make it essential for every careful investor to learn more about them.

In response to the inquiries of many of our clients, we have prepared two booklets designed to explain clearly and concisely what an investment trust is and how it operates.

WOODCARVER'S SHOP ON MAIN HIGHWAY NEAR SAN CLEMENTE

In Low White Workshop
Is Flourishing One of
Most Ancient of Arts

TRADE FOLLOWED SINCE BOYHOOD

Spent School Days Using
Knife and Followed His Inclination Later On

Among those who visit San Clemente, spread like a picture woven in rare old tapestry between the blue sea and the brown hills, many miss seeing the interior of the woodcarver's shop, off the main highway among the hills, apart from the activities of the village. In the low, white workshop is flourishing one of the most ancient arts, carried on with the same unhurried calm, the patience and skill that went into the making of retablos for the altars of Spanish cathedrals, and the hand-carved furniture of its palaces.

Here the artist, Santos Rodriguez, the slender, dark-eyed man, a native of Toledo, Spain, most ancient of the cities of Castile, works at the craft that in the seventeenth century made Toledo famous through the master craftsman, Alonso Cano, whose work on retablos was an inspiration to artists from afar. There, too, lived Cervantes, author of the immortal story of "Don Quixote de la Mancha," and there was made the Toledo blade, the keen-edged sword without which no warrior of old felt himself equipped, and which was a part of every gentleman's wardrobe. Although the demand for swords has declined, said Rodriguez, the making of them, as well as the best steel

GUARDSMEN IN PRACTICE FOR SHAM BATTLES

Company F, 160th infantry, under command of Captain Donald L. Winans, of Santa Ana, already in practice for sham battles to be given at the Orange County fair, September 5 to 10, next.

While intense maneuvers for the "scrap" have not as yet begun, several squads of the company have held sham scrimmages on the fair grounds. These generated plenty of excitement among on-lookers, as the action was replete with thrills.

Captain Winans declared today that his men will be in the pink of condition when the bugle is sounded for the first charge in front of the thronged grand stand. The organization will just have returned from training camp in the northern part of the state.

Heavy explosives are to be used in the sham battle, and an earnest effort will be made, according to announcements, to depict war in all its terrible aspects. Incidentally, it was pointed out that the army maneuvers at the fair will deliver substantial argument in favor of world peace.

With a horse show, rodeo, special lodge performances and other attractions written into the fair program, the general committee, headed by H. A. Lake, of Garden Grove, today was highly optimistic over probabilities of getting the crowds.

The fair not only will stand as a spectacle, Mr. Lake said, but also will have extensive exhibits of Orange county's industrial, live stock, horticultural and agricultural wealth.

Gordon Gray, of San Diego, was offered the position, but declined it because of pressure of private business.

Mrs. Dora A. Stearns, of Los Angeles, who was absent from the meeting, will be elected vice-president at the October meeting, it was agreed. Mrs. Stearns was vice-president of the old board.

JAGIANS WILL DISCUSS PLAN OF ANNEXATION

Junior Chamber to Hold
Debate at Meeting
On August 8

Should Santa Ana annex a shoestring strip to Newport harbor? This question will be the main topic of discussion at the regular meeting of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce at Ketter's cafe Monday night. A debate on the subject, between Ernest Winbigler and C. M. Featherly, who will take the negative, and Harry Westover and Ridley Smith, affirmative, will feature the meeting.

Three prominent Santa Ana business men are to act as judges of the debates, according to Bruce Switzer, chairman of the program committee. Other entertainment features are being lined up for the evening. Switzer announced at the regular meeting of the Junior chamber directors at Ketter's cafe yesterday noon.

The meeting next Monday night will also feature "ladies' night." All members of the chamber are invited to bring their wives, the directors voted yesterday.

The "queen" contest for the Orange County fair association was definitely abandoned at the meeting yesterday. The contest was abandoned because of the lack of support which it met in the various districts. A report made at the meeting revealed that only a few entries had been made in the event. J. R. Hunt, fair manager, is to be notified at once regarding the decision of the chamber to drop the contest.

Abandonment of the queen contest followed the decision of the chamber of commerce directors to bend all their efforts on making the social trip to San Diego, Sept. 16 a success. It is believed that more than 250 passengers will go on the San Diego trip. A boat has been chartered from San Pedro and the Junior Chamber of Commerce at San Diego is planning a reception for the local junior chamber group. It is planned to have the boat leave San Pedro Friday evening and return Sunday morning. Francis Westgate, Paul Ragan, F. Smith and George Rayer are in charge of the trip. The co-operation of the senior chamber of commerce and the city trustees is also expected to help make the trip a big success.

With the addition of two more men given the sheriff's office through a new bill passed by the legislature several months ago, several changes were made yesterday.

Harry Carter, bailiff in Superior court No. 2, has been transferred to the sheriff's department to work with Officers Howard and Knight and M. E. Jamison, former city marshal at Orange, has been assigned as bailiff in Carter's place.

O. K. Forgy, the other new deputy sheriff assigned to the sheriff, will work in the civil department, it was said.

Travelers from Arizona, who have crossed the desert, are usually the longest sleepers, the camp proprietor has noticed. They appreciate the coolness of California nights and don't stir around in the mornings until the sky is pretty well up in the sky.

Very few modern vacationists carry fishing tackle or guns with them, Jones observes. Although they stay for a week or two, taking side trips to the beaches or mountains, they depend on renting what fishing equipment they need.

Although cabins are provided, many people still carry tents with them, which they pitch on the camp ground. In addition to the cabins as many as 14 tents are sometimes scattered about the grounds.

"The poorest people and the richest are the ones who usually carry tents," commented Jones, while the middle class ordinarily uses the cabins."

Couple Marries After 40 Years

CARDIFF, Wales, Aug. 2.—When John Howard, aged 71, and Mrs. Cecilia Baker, 61, were married in Cardiff, Wales, recently, a romance of more than 40 years was culminated. Sweethearts when in their teens, they were unable to marry owing to the refusal of the bride's father, and subsequently the girl married Baker, and Howard was wedded to another woman. Seventeen years ago Howard became a widower, and last year Mrs. Baker's husband died on the fortieth anniversary of their wedding. The families had been on friendly terms for a great number of years, and recently it was announced that the marriage between Howard and Mrs. Baker had been arranged.

Defiance Shown By Irish Tenants

MANORHAMILTON, Ireland, Aug. 2.—Eight tenants in Manorhamilton, Ireland, used spectacular methods in fighting an attempt to raise their rent recently. When the proposed advance was announced they defied the landlord who started eviction proceedings. The tenants then hung out white flags bearing in black letters the word "Eviction," and kept them displayed until the hearing of the cases in court.

When the judge learned that the evictions were for the purpose of increasing the rent he promptly dismissed the cases, but suggested that the flags be taken down.

NEW OWNER OF AUTO CAMP TO BUILD CABINS

Over 200 Cars Came Here
During July and More
Expected in August

With August and September looming ahead as the heaviest months for vacation travel, E. D. Jones, proprietor of the Santa Ana auto camp park, is preparing to build six additional cabins at the park to accommodate the growing crowds, he announced today.

Over 200 cars, carrying approximately 550 persons, enjoyed the facilities of the camp during July, Jones estimated today. In June 432 persons and 154 automobiles were cared for at the camp.

Jones has been studying the most advanced type of auto camp cabins since he took over the camp from the chamber of commerce on July 16, and plans to erect structures which will provide running water and kitchen facilities. The buildings will be plastered, having solid walls, but will provide plenty of ventilation, Jones asserted.

His experience has showed that a very high type of people patronize the camps and they appreciate good accommodations and cleanliness. Cars from almost every state in the Union have arrived at the camp this summer. Many of the vacationists are touring California with the idea of locating here permanently, said Jones.

Traveling salesmen are becoming regular patrons of the auto camps also. They find that they do not have to unload their cars at the camps and this lightening of their labors is the reason why they like the camps.

Vacationists today travel with a much smaller load than they did a few years ago, Jones has noticed. When there were no auto camps, it was necessary to transport a far greater load from place to place. Improvement in the arrangement and design of campers' equipment enables them to make a much more compact pack.

The modern auto camp is going to give its patrons almost the same accommodations as a hotel would, according to Jones. People will continue to use camps in preference to hotels on their vacations, however, because they like the opportunity to be in the open and to enjoy the fresh air which sweeps through the open windows of the sleeping quarters.

In going to a hotel, people feel that they must change their traveling clothes and get into a spick and span condition before coming down to dinner. At the camps they get right down to the business of the evening meal without any preparations except peeling the potatoes, slicing the bacon and polishing their faces and hands.

People are tired after a long day's drive and immediately after dinner most of them get between the blankets.

Travelers from Arizona, who have crossed the desert, are usually the longest sleepers, the camp proprietor has noticed. They appreciate the coolness of California nights and don't stir around in the mornings until the sky is pretty well up in the sky.

2 Dead Because Of Disagreement In Money Division

OAKLAND, Aug. 2.—Joseph Lancaster, 71, and his wife, 41, are dead because they could not decide upon division of $100,000 worth of property.

According to police, Lancaster killed his wife with a revolver while she slept and then committed suicide.

Friends said the couple had a dispute over the status of Lancaster's two children by a former marriage in the making of their wills. They had been married 17 years.

LEGION BUGLE CORPS OFF TO SANTA BARBARA

Dressed up in new uniforms recently purchased by the post, the Santa Ana American Legion bugle and drum corps left at 2 o'clock this afternoon for the American Legion state convention at Santa Barbara.

There were 25 members of the corps present when the final roll was called and the big bus, in which they are making the trip, left the American Legion home on Birch street.

The bugle and drum corps will participate in the gigantic parade scheduled for tomorrow afternoon and will compete for prizes offered by the state organization for best corps in the state.

The Santa Ana uniforms consist of a silver "tin hat" with white straps, white Sam Browne belts and blue military serge coats and trousers of the latest military design.

The corps will also parade in the Forty and Eight parade scheduled for tomorrow night at Santa Barbara and will take part in a number of enterprises which will aid in advertising Santa Ana at the convention.

NEED POSTAGE TO GET LINDY'S PHOTO

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, authorizes the following statement:

During the tour of the 48 states by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and the "Spirit of St. Louis" under the auspices of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, any one who sends 10 cents to Colonel Lindbergh in care of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce, St. Louis, Mo., will receive a photograph of the transatlantic flyer and his plane.

Many letters are now being received by the chamber of commerce from persons who have failed to enclose postage. This failure is due probably to an erroneous interpretation of previous statements that the photograph will be sent "free of charge" provided the postage is enclosed. The chamber of commerce wishes to emphasize that photographs will be sent only to those persons who enclose the 10 cents for airmail postage.

Seeks To Prevent Man Taking Name

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Joseph A. Mooney is seeking to prevent Isidore Selgel changing his name to Joseph Mooney. Both are dentists. Mooney sold out to Selgel. The buyer got court permission to call himself Mooney. Now Mooney is trying to have the permission set aside on the ground that it was sought "for the purpose of commercializing the good name of Joseph A. Mooney."

FLOOD CONTROL IS DISCUSSED BY CITY DADS MONDAY NIGHT

City Engineer Instructed
To Investigate Plans to Straighten Channel

TO EQUIP GROUNDS FOR BOY SCOUTS

Residents Ask Removal of Trees on South Main Street in Near Future

North Flower street and the Santiago creek occupied a large part of the city council's time at the regular meeting last night when the members took action on the questions of flood control, investigation of the North Flower street bridge, and equipment of grounds for the Boy Scouts near the creek.

The council authorized Clyde Jenken, city engineer, to investigate the possibilities of controlling the creek's flow near Flower street and the city's property at the end of Bristol street with a view to straightening the channel and perhaps deepening it. Jenken recommended that the council take action regarding the condition of the creek at that point. His report on the probable cost of the work, including the pulling of trees on the bank at the end of the city's Bristol street ground, is awaited by the council before it takes definite action. The possibility of a concrete jetty to prevent encroachments of the stream came up for discussion but no action on that point resulted.

Residents asked that the trees on the south side of Main street be removed in the near future. A committee composed of city attorneys and engineers of Santa Ana and Orange investigated the problem of flood control last winter with a view to co-operating with the county supervisors in the establishment of an assessment district for financing the work. The inability of the committee to obtain the support of the farmers in the district caused the downfall of the project, according to Jenken. The city now is taking up the question again on its own initiative.

Jenken informed the council that the North Flower street bridge, a wooden wartime structure, merits investigation to determine its safety in carrying heavy loads. The council authorized him to post the bridge warning against the possible danger pending an investigation of the bridge's safety. Seven tons is thought by the city engineer to be the maximum load the structure should support.

Mayor Frank Purinton appointed a committee composed of Jenken, E. B. Collier, city manager, and Trustees Knox and McBride to investigate the condition of the bridge.

Following a report by Collier on the probable cost of placing a fence on the west side of the fence ground on the north side of the Flower street bridge, as well as providing a water supply there for the Boy Scouts, the council voted to carry out the work. It is estimated that the expense will be in the neighborhood of $300.

Scouts to Move
The Boy Scouts are expected to move their cabin on Third street to the new site, owing to the fact that it is now within the fire zone. Acting on a petition of property owners presented by S. H. Finley,

WOODCARVER HAS SHOP NEAR SAN CLEMENTE

knives and carved furniture, is not a lost art in Toledo.
No whir of machinery is heard in this little shop, only the simple tools of the craft are used. Silent, absorbed, the artist bends over his work, lingering even after the final touch is made, as though loath to leave a labor of love. In the shop are samples of his skill, wrought in black walnut, cocoba (mahogany) and cedar. There are cabinets, desks, chairs, tables, telephone stands, and in the clubhouse at San Clemente is a cedar chest and a room furniture of black walnut and red Morocco leather showing his workmanship and that of Pablo Avedillo, the upholsterer.

One of the interesting pieces in the shop is a duplicate of a desk in the royal palace in Madrid. Another exquisite piece shows carving which, Rodriguez stated, represents the ship "Santa Maria" that carried Columbus on his voyage of discovery.
Other lines of work that interest this artist are ceramics and wrought iron work, and he has beautifully drawn and colored designs of vases, of lanterns, candelabra, etc., from which objects may be selected and orders for them filled in Spain.

Rodriguez as a boy liked nothing better than to whittle shapes from pieces of wood, and after his school days were over, he followed his inclination to become a carver of wood, and has spent 18 years in the work. His wife, a woman of education and fine personality, from Toledo, and their little boy, is with him.
The upholsterer, Avedillo, also a Spaniard, holds the distinction of having been a "tapicero" or upholsterer, for the royal palace.

At the time of visiting the shop they were all elated over a letter and newspaper received by Luis Montes, who is connected with the architect's office in San Clemente and has his desk in the workshop. A short time ago he sent pictures and copies of El Heraldo de San Clemente to La Nacion, a newspaper of Madrid, and also wrote to his friends Antonio Almago, secretary to General Primo de Rivera, president of the cabinet. He lately received a reply to his letter, in which the general expressed, at length, thanks for the information about San Clemente, appreciation for the compliment to Spain in its architecture and wishes for the Spanish village, great and never-ending success. He has also received a copy of La Nacion in which three columns and illustrations are devoted to a description of San Clemente.

To those people from Spain who are in San Clemente are recalled scenes in their native country. They were pleased that poplars have been planted along some of the streets of the Spanish village, for these remind them of the "chopos" or poplars, that line many of the highways of their country. The fiery sunsets over the grey sea are to them the glowing skies of Castile when the sun sinks behind vast plains merging into the waters of the river Tagus that laves the rocky cliffs of Toledo, they hear the sound of the sea and are content.

AT THE THEATERS

Adolphe Menjou in a scene from "Service For Ladies," film closing tonight at the West Coast-Walker theater.

YOST BROADWAY THEATRE
"Man Power" is all that the name implies in the Richard Dix picture which comes to the Yost Broadway theater tonight. It is said to be Dix at his best, in a fast-moving story. The story works up to a tremendous climax when the star, driving a tractor through a rain storm, rushes up a hillside to save a dam threatened with a washout.

"Man Power" takes place in a small town. It deals with the adventures of a former tank corps officer down on his luck, who gets a job into which he puts his heart because the daughter of the president of the company is the girl he loves. Throughout there is a strong vein of comedy.

Mary Brian is once again her sweet self. As the peppy daughter of Dix' employer she is said to show a new mastery of comedy technique in addition to the same arch coquetry that stirred so much enthusiasm in "Knockout Reilly."

WEST COAST-WALKER

Snow scenes, which for sheer beauty have rarely, if ever, been equalled on the screen, are a dominant feature of Adolphe Menjou's latest comedy-drama "Service for Ladies," which closes at the West Coast-Walker theater tonight.

Winter sports in the Swiss Alps afford the background for an intensely human story of the romance of a head waiter and his love for an American actress. Of course, the fact that he is a head waiter, even though such a position carries much more dignity in Europe than it does over here, complicates the love affair and therein lies the story.

Those who have seen "Service for Ladies" in its previous, label it the best thing Menjou has done in his career. They say that there is a genuineness, a sympathy and a naturalness to his enactment as the head waiter that grips one from the very start. It is real.

The Fanchon and Marco stage presentation "Blues," featuring the Serpentine girls, Nora Schiller and Maxine, is a riot of color that brings a big hand from the patrons. The Serpentine dance by the 24 girls in the ensemble is a clever arrangement by Fanchon.

TEMPLE THEATRE
Charles Ray, who is the creator of the rural role and this type of drama, has never employed greater dexterity and sympathy in portraying the shambling dreamer than in this production.

As Ben Wilson, erstwhile lover of Adeline, Ray's ability as both comedian and dramatic actor comes to the fore. His adventures as the tenor in the village quartette who had faith in his ability to startle the world with his singing are food for tears and laughter.

Gertrude Altmeyer, who plays the feminine lead opposite Charles Ray, is ideally sweet as Adeline. "Sweet Adeline," which is playing at the Temple theater tonight and tomorrow, is said to be one of Ray's best features.

ARMED NATIVES PROMINENT S.A. IN SEARCH OF MATRONS HURT BOY'S SLAYER IN ACCIDENT

LAKEPORT, Calif., Aug. 2.—More than 300 northern Lake county residents have armed themselves and are advancing toward Bartlett mountain to apprehend the unidentified killer of Everett Alley, member of a prominent Lake county family, according to word received by District Attorney Benjamin B. Jones.

District Attorney Jones, accompanied by Sheriff L. O. McKelly, is directing a force of forest rangers in an effort to locate the slayer before the armed residents find him.

A lynching is feared, Jones said. Alley was shot down earlier today while hunting on Bartlett mountain, presumably by a deer hunter. His brother Leonard heard the shot and saw Everett fall, but was unable to discern the face of the man who fired the gun.

Young Alley was known to all residents throughout northern Lake county. Word of his slaying spread rapidly and between 300 and 400 men obtained weapons of various descriptions and started for the mountain where the shooting occurred.

District Attorney Jones started in pursuit as soon as he received word of the mob organizing.

The armed mob is reported stopping everyone and questioning them as it progresses toward the mountain. Many of the searchers are mounted.

All roads through the district have been closed by the armed natives.

Mississippi River Barges Are Afire

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Aug. 2.—Eight burning oil barges this afternoon were floating down the Mississippi river from Dog Tail landing, about 350 miles south of here, according to a radio message from the steamer Gulfport.

The barges were in tow of the steamer Sprague when fire broke out in one and rapidly spread to the others, according to the radio message received here.

Four prominent Santa Ana women narrowly escaped death or serious injury today when the machine in which they were riding skidded in sand on the pavement and overturned after crashing into a telephone pole on West Seventeenth street, west of the Santa Ana river bridge.

Mrs. M. D. Borgmeyer, St. Ann's Inn, suffered three fractured ribs and a broken collar bone and Mrs. Helene Caswell, of the Haddon court on North Broadway, suffered several broken ribs, cuts and bruises.

Mrs. W. H. Haddon, of 1014 French street, who was the driver of the machine and Mrs. Louis Luhr, North Bristol street, escaped injury.

According to a report, the Haddon machine headed west, attempted to pass the car in front of it when the car suddenly turned out to pass still another machine. Mrs. Haddon turned her machine to the ditch to avoid a collision. The car skidded and overturned. The Haddon car was badly wrecked.

ELECTRICITY GIVES IMPETUS TO FARM CROP

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Aug. 2.—The Rochester Journal and Post-Express says that electro-cultivation of the soil by impregnation with 103,000 volts of electricity through the medium of a plow which transmits the voltage into the earth is being tried in experiments with some success on the farms of Donald Woodward, millionaire agriculturist at Leroy, N. Y.

The process is the invention of Hamilton L. Roe of Pittsburgh, who declares it not only eliminates weeds and destroys bacteria and harmful grubs, but restores the fertility of farm lands and produces crops in record time. The plow is drawn behind an ordinary tractor equipped with a generator which transmits the electrical energy to the plow, whence it passes through the several blades to the earth.

The newspaper says that in an experiment on a field sown with buckwheat, the half cultivated by the electrical plow was for the first time clean of weeds and quack grass, the seeds germinated in 30 hours and the plants were nearly twice as high as in the other half, which was treated with 200 pounds of fertilizer per acre.

FLOOD CONTROL IS DISCUSSED BY CITY DADS

The council instructed Jenken to draw plans and specifications for paving South Halladay street between First and Chestnut streets and between Chestnut and McFadden streets.

The council instructed the city clerk, Ed. Vegely, to advertise for bids for 600 water meters and for supplying tires for the city's automobiles during the coming year. The action was taken on the advice of city manager Collier. The deterioration of water meters is said to be rapid, causing them to register less water than is used. It is expected that the saving to the city through accuracy of the meters will more than pay for their cost.

An application of residents on South Main street between First and Pine streets, to the effect that the city remove the trees in the parking thoroughfare, that section of city expenses was referred to the city manager for an estimate of the probable cost. The report is due at the next council meeting. The city clerk was authorized to request S. H. Finley, secretary of the Colorado river aqueduct association, to represent the city of Santa Ana at a meeting of the association in Ontario on August 6. The city clerk, on instructions from the council, opened bids from three electrical supply companies, quoting prices for supplying electric light bulbs to the city for the coming year. The bids of the companies were virtually the same and were referred to the city manager for a future report. The Robertson Electric company, Hockaday and Harlow, and the Southern California Edison company were the bidders. Discounts offered amounted to 27 per cent for standard and 17 per cent for broken packages.

The annual reports of the various city officers were referred to the finance committee. Other matters acted on by the council included taking over the maintenance cost of ornamental lights on Oakmont and Fairmont streets, endorsement of a proposed trip of members of the junior chamber of commerce to San Diego representing Santa Ana, and authorizing the city clerk to draw a warrant for $107 to pay for clerical services in the office of the city attorney during the months of June and July.

A map of the alley beside the Smart and Final plant on First street and adjacent to the Santa Fe tracks, was presented by the city engineer and accepted. The council passed a resolution of intention to abandon the property. L. C. Rogers, chief of police, was authorized to post notices of offering a reward for the apprehension of unknown persons who are asserted to have made a nightly practice of throwing rocks through the windows of homes in various parts of the city.

Rites Wednesday For Floyd Covert

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 2.—Funeral services for Floyd Covert, who was killed Friday night in an automobile crash on Main street, will be conducted from the First Methodist church tomorrow at 2 p. m. It was announced today. Covert's mother is scheduled to arrive today from Michigan for the services. The Rev. S. J. Rogers will officiate.

These MOVIE PEOPLE

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Join the movies and see the world. That's Norma Shearer's advice to young men and girls who want to go to places and see things.

"Aside from the navy and a traveling salesman's job, the movies offer more opportunity to visit various places than any other vocation," says Norma.

"When I first started working in pictures I was surprised at the amount of traveling was necessary to make a film. I was working in New York then. We used to go to every place from Canada to Florida on 'location' trips. Since practically all of the large studios have concentrated their production in Hollywood, there aren't so many location trips now, but there are enough to satisfy even the most adventuresome person."

Miss Shearer, by the way, is the only cinema actress I have ever known who admits that her time on the screen is limited. To admit that you will not remain in the celluloid heavens indefinitely is an unheard-of thing in the movie town.

"I want to do one film that will stand out above all my others—then I will be ready to retire and live on my laurels from that production," she declares.

Norma objects to being called superstitious—but she is. She always drives to the studio via the same road because it has brought her good luck; she will not move into a more elaborate dressing room, which has been offered her on several occasions, because she rose to the top from her present studio quarters and is afraid to change; she must go into a picture feeling that it will "dip" or it won't be a success; and she must go to a fortune teller now and then.

During the early part of her career as a star, Norma fought for super-special productions of a serious nature. She didn't want ordinary program films, especially those of a light comedy vein; but she was finally persuaded that they would be good for her. And now she shuns special and serious pictures.

TENT CITY SPRINGS UP AT FAIR GROUNDS; ADVENTISTS TO LIVE THERE TWO WEEKS

The city of tents rapidly is rising in the Orange County Fair grounds in preparation for the annual encampment of the Southeastern California Conference of Seventh-day Adventists. The camp-meeting will be held from August 11 to 21. For the past two weeks, the clergymen of this conference have come in from their different churches and, laying aside their clerical dress, have donned overalls to prepare the large camp for the meeting.

Two hundred tents will be equipped with chairs, tables, beds, and other necessary furniture to make their occupants comfortable during the meetings. Streets of the tent city have been laid out in orderly precision and each tent will be systematically numbered. Six large pavilions are being pitched in which regular services for all ages, from the youngest child to the oldest grandparent, will be held.

The canvas city will have a cafeteria, where wholesome vegetarian dishes will be served at popular prices. A store, delicatessen, and book stand will also be in operation. The large pavilion, 100 by 250 feet in size, will seat some 5000 persons and it will probably be crowded to capacity on the Saturdays and Sundays of the meeting.

P. E. Brodersen, of Riverside, president of the Southeastern California conference, assures all who attend that they will hear in the large auditorium with perfect ease, for electric amplifiers will be used with microphones to project the voice of the speaker. The program of services begins at 6 a. m. with public services, Bible studies, health lectures, and demonstrations by doctors and nurse will be features of the meeting.

Returned missionaries from the South Seas and South America will portray vivid stories of Christianity in foreign lands. President J. E. Fulton, of Glendale, who has spent more than 25 years in the Solomon Islands and the New Hebrides will speak. Pastor H. M. Blunden will lecture with pictures from the island lands. President P. E. Brodersen is a returned missionary from South America.

Our Neighbors

RIVERSIDE—Coachella valley's grape harvest, which reached its peak nearly two weeks ago, has been marked by a heavy production and by the high sugar content of the fruit. Inspector E. L. Olson reported yesterday upon return to the office of County Horticultural Commissioner A. E. Botel after a month of standardization work in the valley.

"The season has been excellent for the development of sugar content, with the result that the crop in this respect measures up to any within several years," he said. "Excellent market has been found for the heavy crop both locally and in shipments. The bulk of the crop has been of Malaga fruit."

SAN BERNARDINO—July's marks in building, banking and post office receipts established San Bernardino's prosperity prominently for 1927. With a flood of permits, San Bernardino's construction total for the month was $260,652, it was announced by Building Inspector George T. Sargent. Of the total, $107,200 was expended for new dwellings, the analysis shows. On only one month during the present year has residence construction been higher.

COLTON—This city acquired approximately 18 acres of new territory through a novel election last week, when the Ramona subdivision south of Colton was voted in by two ballots cast by Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Yates, sole residents affected by the election. This is the second time in Colton's city history that annexation elections involving only one family have been held. The Golden West tract in West Colton was voted in by one resident last year when Asa Barnett cast the solitary ballot.

RIVERSIDE—Work on the new million dollar hotel and resort at Norco has been commenced by Rex B. Clark, president of the North Corona Land company, who expects to have constructed on a 420-acre tract owned by him in the Norco hills one of the finest structures of its type in the state. The resort will be built about a hot sulphur water well discovered in 1925 and found to be of medicinal value. A swimming pool and lake will be principal features of the resort, which eventually will include a group of bungalows in addition to a splendid hotel structure to contain 150 rooms.

EL CENTRO—Imperial valley's melon shipment this season totaled 21,000 carloads, it was disclosed by the shippers today. The cantaloupe output amounted to 17,502 carloads which is nearly three thousand above the highest previous record. Watermelon shipments amounted to 3,420 carloads. A few cars are still going out daily and it is anticipated that the final season's total will exceed the 21,000 mark.

In addition to the above railroad consignments, large quantities of melons have been forwarded to the coast markets by motor truck. No accurate check is kept on these, however.

Many growers have indicated that they will cut down their acreage next season, due to the disastrous market slump that accompanied the heavy output this year.

SAN BERNARDINO—Demolition of the old courthouse and hall of records is proceeding rapidly, with day and night shifts engaged in the project. The interiors of both structures have been gutted and dismantling of the outer walls will start soon. The roofs of the buildings already have been removed.

William P. Clarke of Toledo has been elected to his 25th consecutive term as president of the American Flint Glass Workers' International union.

TROPIC SCHOOL FOR MEDICS IN SECOND YEAR

SAN JUAN, P. R., Aug. 1.—America's first school of tropical medicine at San Juan, P. R., has completed its first year and the first to receive a certificate from the institution is Dr. Gurbax Singh Sant, of Amritsar, India, who was the first student to enroll when the school opened last fall.

Under the joint direction of the University of Porto Rico and Columbia university, New York, the School of Tropical Medicine is the first of its kind in the world. The program of services begins at 6 a. m. with public services, Bible studies, health lectures, and demonstrations by doctors and nurse will be features of the meeting.

In 1920 the Porto Rican government made an appropriation for carrying on this work through the establishment of the Institute of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene. This institute formed the base on which the new medical school was founded for graduate research and study. American medical schools teach tropical medicine, but without the facilities for research and observation in the tropics. England and other countries have medical schools within the tropics, but the first to be established in the Americas is in Porto Rico.

Dr. Gurbax Singh Sant has been away from India almost four years studying in various parts of the world and plans to return to Amritsar in the fall. Last October, while at the University of Michigan, he heard of the opening of the School of Tropical Medicine at San Juan, and decided to continue his work here. Dr. Sant is a graduate of Amritsar Medical college, and practiced many years in his home city. Living in the tropics, he is interested in tropical diseases, particularly bubonic plague, from which disease thousands of his countrymen die almost every year.

The purpose in establishing a school for tropical medical research here was to have within the American tropics a school equal to any in the world, where doctors planning to practice in the tropics might complete their studies under conditions similar to those under which they will later carry on their work. Back of this, of course, is the determination to eliminate disease from the tropics and to continue the cleanup so notably started in the Canal Zone. Circling the earth on either side of the equator is a vast strip, which, except in rare instances is not healthful for white men. The purpose of the school is to rid this strip of disease and make it more livable.

The problem is one of general education in which trained medical men are believed to be the only missionaries who can carry the necessary knowledge to the people. Smallpox and yellow fever have been eliminated from most tropical countries, but other maladies almost as serious remain. It is against these as well as less dreaded diseases that the new school is directing its energies.

Baby Falls Seven Stories; Is Only Slightly Injured

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Aug. 2.—Falling seven stories from the window of a hotel here, Roland Wolfe, 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. I. C. Wolfe, Knoxville, Tenn., escaped death by landing on the shoulders of a passerby.

Raymond Garnett, New York, unwittingly saved the baby's life. The child fell head first, landing solidly on Garnett. The boy's body was severely bruised.

According to witnesses in the building across the street from the hotel, the baby was playing in the window when suddenly the screen gave way, allowing him to drop seven floors to the sidewalk below.

Doctors said, after an examination, that the child would recover.

Fortune In Drugs Seized By Agents

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Seventy ounces of morphine, valued at $17,500, was seized by federal narcotic agents in a Belvedere Gardens drug store yesterday and three men were arrested for possession of the drug. The men, John Lando, 21, Joe Miceli and Charles Delston were arrested after a federal operative posing as a druggist offered to buy the morphine from the trio and arranged to meet them at the pharmacy to close the deal.

Airplane Used By Australia Premier

MELBOURNE, Australia, Aug. 2.—Stanley Bruce, premier of Australia, one of the latest private owners of an airplane, has introduced an innovation in his form of a hangar in the cellar of his house, similar to a garage, for storing his plane. He expects to use his flying bus for hops from Melbourne to Canberra, the new capital, 250 miles away.

CONDITIONS IN SOUTHLAND ARE BEST IN NATION

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—The business situation in Los Angeles and Southern California for the first seven months of 1927 is relatively very favorable and, compared with other sections of the country, the situation is bright, according to a survey completed by the chamber of commerce.

"Reviewing in an unprejudiced way, it will be found that our industries are for the most part active, with records for the first half year well ahead of last and in some instances to a surprising degree," the report states.

"The population, bank clearances, construction of all buildings, except those publicly owned, post-office receipts, carloadings, commerce in the harbor, automobile registrations and many other indicators show large increases. In the few cases where there are decreases as against last year, such as in sales of new automobiles, the decrease is less than in any other section of the United States or the Pacific coast."

Increase in Building
Tabulation of building permits for the first half year, eliminating public buildings, showed an increase during the first half year as against 1926. Population growth, an interesting feature of which is the indication that new residents in Los Angeles are people of larger means, as revealed through incoming household shipments, shows an extensive gain over the first six months of 1926.

"Figures for production of crude oil in California held steady during the month at about 620,500 barrels per day or about two per cent higher than July, 1926," the report states. "Employment generally is at a high rate with a call for experienced workers in the needle and textile industries and for the most part manufacturing lines have an unusually large number of employees for this time of the year."

Agriculture has a much more promising outlook at this time than a year ago. While the report states that the seasonal fruit growers, especially those looking to cannery outlets in the south, will not experience a profitable season, the citrus industry is enjoying high returns with prospects for the remainder of the season extremely good.

Grape Deal Under Way
The grape deal is under way and all factors are optimistic. Field crops are in fair condition and the market outlook favorable. Although the Imperial valley melon deal did not turn out as well as was expected and growers and distributors both traded dollars, other vegetable lines are firm with acreage of fall growing crops larger than last season.

"Taking Southern California agricultural industry as a whole, the picture presented the first day of August is typical of the season. The situation emphasizes the soundness of our wide range of crop production. Diversity of agricultural production keeps the 'white spot' white," the report states.

Although the coming orange crop will be short, the survey states that a reasonably short crop most often will bring more to the industry than an above normal one, with the increasing demand for Southern California oranges.

Peach canning just now is getting under way, but growers and canners have not as yet agreed on prices.

Better Than Expected
Coachella valley and other early grape districts turned out better than at first expected. Considerable volume of early grapes from the desert section were sold to Los Angeles operators. All things point to a more favorable grape deal this year than last.

Conditions in the walnut industry have remained most favorable during the last month and a market slightly above normal is expected. The cotton crop is expected to be normal. While the lima bean industry is expected to be light, the sugar beet harvest has prospects of handling around 240,000 tons, an increase of 100,000 tons over last year.

There is little change in the Hay market.

PROFITABLE INVESTMENTS

$5000 GUARANTEE WOULD BRING P. C. L. TEAM TO FAIR GROUNDS, BELIEF

Five thousand dollars will just about bring the Portland club of the Pacific Coast league to the Orange County Fair grounds for a month of preliminary training next spring and Santa Ana officials and sportsmen already are discussing ways and means of raising that sum at least as a guarantee. It may be said safely that negotiations already have reached a place further than ever before along this line.

Ernie Johnson, manager of the Ducks, was here in person yesterday and conferred for more than an hour with representative citizens and civic authorities, leaving no doubt in the minds of the Santa Anans that Portland would like to locate in Orange county if suitable arrangements could be perfected.

Johnson said that the final decision, of course, would rest with Tom L. Turner, president of the club, and a close associate of Connie Mack of Philadelphia, but that he was reasonably certain a fund of approximately $5000 would prove attractive to the higher-ups in Oregon.

Turner himself was unable to come here, as was at first expected, business in Portland preventing his making the jump south with the team.

The Ducks were scheduled to open a seven-game series in Los Angeles against Hollywood today and Manager Johnson stopped off in this city enroute to his home in Laguna Beach. Incidentally, Thursday has been designated as "Johnson Day" at Wrigley field and scores of friends and well-wishers in Santa Ana as well as Laguna Beach, will pay homage to the hustling little pilot.

Those who interviewed Johnson anent the training camp proposition were Frank Purinton, mayor; Alex Brownridge, cashier of the Farmers and Merchants Savings bank; George Raymer, secretary of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, and Bob Fernandez, president of the Santa Ana Junior Chamber of Commerce. Purinton also is a member of the Orange County Fair Board association which would play an important role in the plans if they are consummated.

'Pop' Warner Returns To Stanford

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Aug. 2.—The resounding whack of the collegiate pigskin has been faintly heard here with the return of Glenn S. ("Pop") Warner, coach of Stanford university.

Back from a two months' trip to the east and middle west, Warner inaugurated the 1927 football bubble with the declaration that all coast teams appear stronger and more stable than last year.

Warner will devote the immediate future to publication of a football book.

DEMPSEY-TUNNEY TO BOX IN CHICAGO SOMETIME BETWEEN SEPTEMBER 15-22 NOW PLAN

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Some time between September 15 and 22 Jack Dempsey, who lost his heavyweight boxing championship to Gene Tunney in Philadelphia a year ago, is to get his chance to disprove the old adage "they can't come back." The South Park board, controlling Chicago's colossal Soldier's field, has agreed to allow Tex Rickard, acting through George F. Getz, millionaire coal magnate, to put on the big fight there.

Billy Evans SAYS

Over a period of seven or eight years Babe Ruth has reigned supreme as baseball's greatest slugger.

At times he has been challenged by rivals in both leagues but the opposition never developed to such an extent that Ruth seemed in danger of permanently losing his title.

The latest menace has arrived in the person of Lou Gehrig, fellow teammate, who follows him in the batting order of the Yankees lineup. He seems to be made of sterner stuff and for the first time in years the Sultan of Swat appears to be in danger of losing his crown.

What is Ruth's reaction to the battle that Gehrig is making to dethrone him? What sort of a feeling exists between the two? Does Ruth resent the youth who is trying to usurp his throne?

The prevailing opinion among the fans is that bad feeling exists between the two super sluggers. Never was anything farther from the truth.

Will Ruin Getz's Plans

The change in plans would work havoc with Getz's plans, however. He is a big game hunter and had arranged to sail for Africa on a chartered boat September 21. It was believed that he would change his plans to conform with Dempsey's request.

Rickard is to leave for New York today to wind up his business arrangements there, before returning to Chicago for a month's work at preparing for the Dempsey-Tunney bout.

Getz anticipates a $2,000,000 gate, he told the United Press. Upon this basis, he is prepared to deposit $200,000 with the Illinois boxing commission as security for the state of Illinois' 10 per cent tax on the gate receipts. Rickard agreed to $100,000 for one night's rental of the stadium.

Work of arranging the seating for the bout was under way today. Park authorities estimated that 172,000 persons could be crowded into the giant horseshoe. Rickard believes that about 155,000 persons will fill the big magnet-shaped stadium.

To Assign Contracts

The agreement between Rickard and Getz calls for the assignment of Rickard's contracts with Dempsey and Tunney to the coal magnate. It was necessary for an Illinois resident to act as promoter of the bout.

Under the Illinois law, the bout will go 10 rounds to a decision by the referee and two judges. Under this law, all these officials must be Illinois residents. All officials are named by the state boxing commission just before the bout is put on.

Platts Defeat Firemen, Gain In Flag Chase

Another sterling pitching demonstration by "Benny" Wilcox boosted the Platt Silvertowns one more notch up the Santa Ana Night Baseball league ladder at Lincoln park last night, the talented little gunner turning back the Santa Ana Firemen, 5 to 2, and setting them down with four hits.

With any kind of support Wilcox might have turned in a shut-out. The two runs made off him were unearned, one of them being a drive by Wayne Nelson that hand-cuffed West in right field

HORNSBY GIVEN CREDIT WHEN GIANTS BEGIN TO WIN WHILE M'GRAW AWAY AFTER PLAYERS

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Strange as it would have seemed just a few weeks ago, the New York Giants are in the running for the National league pennant. The credit goes to Rogers Hornsby, whose stock as a "master mind" went down rapidly during the team's slump.

John McGraw, with a great ambition to celebrate his silver anniversary as manager of the Giants with another pennant, became so discouraged with the showing of his club that he left the team and went on a hunting expedition for new ivory through the bush league belt.

He left the team in charge of Hornsby, feeling perhaps that the boys could do no worse for the field captain than they had done for their manager.

Dempsey Asks For Delay In Tunney Match

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Jack Dempsey today was awaiting word from Promoter Tex Rickard concerning his request that his Chicago battle with Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion, be postponed until the week of September 26.

The "Manassa mauler" wired Rickard late yesterday pointing out that illness of his wife, Estelle Taylor, prevented his resuming training for his attempt to regain the championship that he formerly held, and that he would not leave for the middle west until she is back on her feet.

"I always like to do a month's work in camp, and as it appears as though I cannot leave here before the middle of August talk of opening camp immediately will get a jolt," Dempsey said.

Colima Favorite To Defeat Strong

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Bert Colima, Whittier Mexican middleweight, has been installed a favorite over Everett Strong, erstwhile Nebraskan in their battle of 10 rounds or less at the Olympic here tonight.

Evans Tells Johnson's Great Thrill

Walter Had One Big Disappointment

(This is the fifth of a series of six articles by Billy Evans on Walter Johnson's career of twenty years as a member of the Washington pitching staff. Evans, umpired the first game pitched by Johnson in 1907 and since then has seen him pitch scores of games throughout his long career.—Sport Editor's Note.)

By BILLY EVANS
(American League Umpire)

The greatest thrill of Walter Johnson's remarkable career, he himself tells me, was centered in the last four innings of the final game of the 1924 world series.

After having waited 18 years to get a chance to work in the baseball classic, the opportunity finally arrived when Washington won the American league pennant in 1924. The fans, like Johnson, had been pulling for the chance to see the smoke ball king pit his stuff against the cream of the National league.

After being beaten in his first two starts, losing the first game after 12 innings of play, in which he struck out an even dozen, it seemed as if the opportunity to strut his stuff had come too late.

Prior to the seventh and final contest of the series, with the games standing at three all, I had a long chat with Johnson in the dressing room at the Washington club. He was mighty disconsolate. Those two defeats had created more sorrow in his heart than all his other reverses in 18 years of glorious victory. He seemed to think that in the one big test he had failed loyal fandom.

"A lot of things may happen

TOUGH LUCK

Here's Joe Dawson, new hurler of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who lost four games before he was able to put over a win. Dawson was brought up from the minors in an effort to strengthen the Pirates' pitching staff, but a spell of tough luck followed him, and, despite rather effective pitching on his part, he lost his first four games.

CHICAGO CUBS TAKE LEAD IN N. L. RACE

CHICAGO, Aug. 2.—Defeating the Phillies while the Pittsburgh Pirates were dropping a game to the Boston Braves, the Chicago Cubs jumped to first place in the National league for the sixth time this season.

The Cubs won from the Phillies, 6 to 5, on two timely hits delivered by Right Fielder Earl Webb.

The Braves bumped the Pirates out of the lead in 11 innings by a 4 to 1 score. The St. Louis Cardinals were let down a notch in the National league standing when they dropped a game, 6 to 3, to the New York Giants.

Might Play Cubs, Pirates

"Games probably would be played with Pittsburgh and Chicago of the National league, Denver of the Western league and the famous Philadelphia Colored Giants, Pittsburgh and Chicago already have announced their intention of playing a series of exhibition contests in Southern California again next spring.

"With competent management and proper publicity and joint cooperation from other Orange county cities who also would share in the attendant publicity of having a team train within a few miles the project might even be made to pay dividends to the backers."

Johnson said he was of the belief that the Fair grounds, just off the state highway near the Orange county hospital, would be suitable for Portland's needs.

MAY TRADE KAMM

There is a rumor that Miller Huggins will make an effort to get Willie Kamm away from the White Sox in a trade next winter.

MCKINLEY HUMBLER ROOSEVELT, 17-6

McKinley 17 6 0 0 0

Franklin 1 6 1 0 0
Spurgeon 1 6 1 0 0

McKinley school took one more determined step forward in its uphill fight to tie the Lincoln school for the championship of the Santa Ana Summer Playground Baseball league by flogging Roosevelt, 17 to 6, at Roosevelt yesterday.

The Rough-Riders were no match for the West Third street youngsters who scored almost at will, making three in the second, three in the fourth, three in the fifth, five in the sixth and three in the seventh.

Players for McKinley included Urbine, Myers, Conrad, Herb, Bowe, Harold, Bowe, Daley, Crumley, Wiener and Whitford. Roosevelt players included Marlborough, Harolds, Gregory, Gonzales, Crawford, Horral, Chamberlain, Floyd and Harcoot.

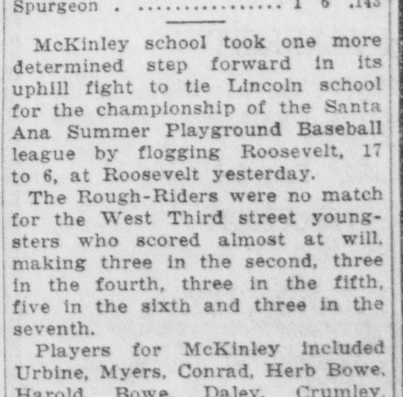

Walter Johnson

It wasn't in the books for Washington to win, however. Johnson was wretchedly supported and the strain of the two other games had robbed him of much of his stuff. Fate had given him just the opposite break of the previous series.

SICK WOMAN SOON RECOVERS

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"A neighbor advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which she said helped her so much. So I bought a few bottles and tried it out. I sure helped me wonderfully. I felt much better. My work is no longer a dread to me. I hear of any one who is troubled the way I was, I will gladly recommend the Vegetable Compound to them and I will answer any letters in regard to the same."—Mrs. Bertha Meschan, 1134 N. Penn. Ave., Lansing, Mich.

"I had been sickly ever since I was fifteen years old. After taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I got so I could do all my housework and I am in good health."—Mrs. Marie K. Williams, Ketchikan, Alaska.

From Michigan to Alaska, from Maine to Oregon and from Connecticut to California letters are continually being written by grateful women recommending Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The Compound is made from roots and herbs and has been in use for over fifty years.

S. A. CHAMBER WILL DISCUSS BEACH PAGEANT

Ways and means of extending effective co-operation to the Laguna Beach Pageant association in the latter's undertaking to make the annual fiesta and pageant an artistic and financial success, will be discussed at the next regular board meeting of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce, set for Thursday morning. It was announced today by George Raymer, secretary of the chamber.

According to Raymer, the co-operation of the chamber has been solicited by the Laguna Beach association, in which connection it has been proposed that one night of fiesta period be set aside in honor of Santa Ana.

With Laguna Beach and surrounding coast line destined to become the Riviera of Southern California, the Santa Ana chamber is naturally desirous of supporting any project that will advertise its attractions to travelers and pleasure seekers, Raymer commented. He also expressed the hope that the entire city of Santa Ana would be well represented on the night set aside in its honor.

EVANGELISTS COMING HERE

Above is pictured the personnel of the Bisconer Evangelistic team that comes to Santa Ana to open a revival campaign beginning Thursday evening. The huge tent has been erected in the ten hundred block on West Second street.

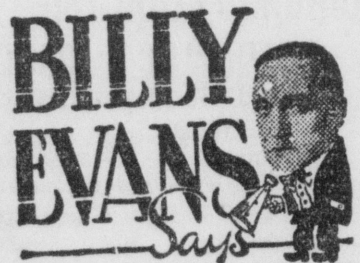

Long Beach Preacher Is Advocate of Better Sports—Less Jazz

Less of "good sports" and more of "womanly" women; less of wild jazz parties and more of wholesome home life; less of playmates and more of helpmates to young husbands crying to make their way in life, is the crying need of America today, according to Mrs. Charles Bisconer, a Long Beach evangelist and Bible teacher, who next Thursday night, August 4, will open a series of evangelistic services in a tent located in the tenth block on West Second street.

Mrs. Bisconer heads a team of religious workers, which accompanies her from one place to another. The personnel of the team is as follows: Mr. and Mrs. Bisconer, Dr. Frank E. Zeller, song leader and tenor soloist; Nellie Mize, violinist; Dorothy Bacon, steel guitar and other string instruments; and Myrtle Johnson, pianist.

Mrs. Bisconer is an evangelist of marked ability, having devoted 25 years of her life to this work in California and Oregon. She is a native of Walla Walla, Wn. Her messages and sermons, while based on scriptural readings and appealing to conscience, deal with present-day problems. In addition to the regular evening services, she will conduct special meetings for mothers and daughters.

Discussing modern tendencies among women, she took a fling at cigarette smoking, which she said is detracting from feminine charm and womanly dignity. Hasty and ill-advised marriages, lack of domestic training on the part of young wives, and apartments instead of individual homes, are some of the reasons for America's divorce evil, she asserted.

would upset him, would tend to throw him off his stride.

However, the Bambino is just the opposite. He is the phlegmatic sort, who never worries about anything. As I write this article, Gehrig has a lead of one home run over Ruth. I doubt if the Babe even knows it. In all probability he still thinks he is two or three in front.

That will best tell you how Ruth is being affected by the struggle that Gehrig is making to take down the home-run honors in the majors. He hardly knows it's on.

Ruth and Gehrig are the very best of friends. Lou will tell you that the Babe has helped him a lot. When the Babe is passed, he turns and exhorts Gehrig to hit one out of the lot. There is no bunk about it either, Ruth is deadly in earnest.

While Ruth unquestionably realizes what a great slugger Gehrig is, I know that down in his heart he is positive the Babe is just a little bit better at the job of making home runs.

Incidentally, I am sure that Babe feels that no matter how many home runs "Larruping Lou" Gehrig has at the close of the season, Ruth will have just a few more.

Gehrig, on the other hand, is just like a kid about the honors that have been suddenly thrust upon him.

"Can you imagine anything greater than battling Ruth for the home-run title and doing a pretty good job of it?" asks Gehrig.

No, kind friends, there is no enmity between Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig; they are the best of friends. Neither is there anything chummy about the Babe, despite any decision you may have reached to the contrary. He's very human—just a big kid.

What is the home run ratio of sluggers like Gehrig and Ruth figured on their total number of hits?

When asked that question recently, off-hand I replied that I thought it was about one circuit drive in every six hits.

Not satisfied with my mere guess reply, I decided to look into the averages for accurate dope on the question. I found that the ratio was higher than I thought.

WOMAN GIVEN POSITION WITH STATE COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of interpretive news articles dealing with the new California laws which went into effect July 29.

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
SACRAMENTO, Aug. 2.—Ladies and gentlemen, be seated.

Thus will Governor Young address his newly-created "council" when it assembles for the first time in his office this week.

The "governor's council," created by act of the 1927 legislature, is composed of the nine directors of finance, education, agriculture, institutions, industrial relations, natural resources, public works, public health and social welfare.

The director of social welfare is a woman.

Because a woman is believed to be best fitted to head the administration of the state's orphanages, rescue homes, detention homes, child placing agencies, hospitals, rescue and maternity homes, a woman has been chosen for that directorship.

She heads the enforcement of a new law aimed at the so-called "baby farms" which have recently sprung into prominence, and all other institutions having the care or rearing of children.

It may be good news to the school children of California that Armistice day, November 11, is to be a school and legal holiday in this state.

But they'll laugh out of the other corner of their mouths when they learn that the state legislature voted to extend their next school year by 10 days. For that act, the California legislature will never be forgiven by the school children.

Children whose parents are "migratory workers"—that is, who move from place to place to harvest fruit crops as they ripen, hereafter will have the same privileges as other school children of the state.

Under the new laws which went into effect July 29, special "migratory schools" will be established to care for children of such workers.

Hot lunches may be served at schools, through cafeterias owned and operated by the school districts themselves, another law provides.

Among the new school statutes are those that permit districts to purchase supplies collectively (which will save thousands of dollars a year, officials estimate), establish a division of school planning in the department of education, require doctors or nurses to report deaf children to school superintendents, and empower the state board of health, department of education and department of public welfare to care for California Indians with federal funds.

Familial property will actually and literally be "50-50" between husband and wife, under the new community property law.

It gives the wife a present and vested interest in the community property, instead of a future and inherited interest as at present.

Election laws also are considerably changed.

Helpless or illiterate voters may take persons with them to the polls to help them vote. Candidates' names are put on the ballot without the present long petitions.

Only a certain number of qualified "sponsors" being necessary. Election centers are created to tabulate the election returns hourly, instead of requiring boards to wait until polls close.

Other important law changes include the following:

Fruit and vegetable standardization, bovine tuberculosis act, coronor's juryman to receive $1 a day, regulation of upholstered manufacturing, regulation of employment agencies, investigation of pensions for state employees and aged persons, commission to study tax problems, increasing annual hunting and fishing license fee, removing the closed season on bear in livestock counties, and increasing salaries of superior judges, supreme judges and horticultural commissioners.

It revealed the fact that Ken Williams, who has been playing substitute roles for the St. Louis Browns this year, had 10 home runs in 60 hits. Rather fancy clouting for a bench warmer.

Gehrig, by the way, doesn't believe either he or Ruth will break the record of 50 set by Bambino. The Babe's most dangerous rival is hopeful of making 45.

It is believed that Dempsey and Tunney will choose training sites near Chicago within a fortnight. Rockford, Ill., and Lake Geneva, Wis., have been suggested as possible training quarters.

BILLY GIBSON HEARS BOUT WILL BE SEPT. 22

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—Tex Rickard has changed the date for the Tunney-Dempsey heavyweight championship fight in Chicago from September 15 to September 22. It was announced today at the office of Billy Gibson, Tunney's manager. In a long distance telephone conversation with Rickard in Chicago, Gibson was told that the fight had been set back a week in deference to the wishes of Dempsey.

Callahan, Baker To Post Forfeit

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 2.—Mushy Callahan and Sergeant Sammy Baker who meet at Wrigley field here August 29 for the junior welterweight championship, now held by the former, will post $1000 each with the state athletic commission to guarantee to make the 140-pound weight limit, their managers announced today.

The sum was designated by the boxing moguls yesterday, who further stipulated that both fighters post an additional $2500 to protect Promoter Dick Donald.

Baker started training today at Soper's ranch near Ojai where Jack Dempsey did his early "comeback" conditioning. Callahan is to arrive this week from the east and will train at Noah Beery's ranch in Big Rock creek, near Palmdale.

Gould Is Leading Hurlers On Coast

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 2.—Al Gould, star twirler of the Oakland club, today was leading the Pacific Coast league pitching procession with the best mound performance of the season thus far. Gould has won 11 games and lost only 2 for a percentage of .846. With 14 victories and 7 defeats, Boehler, another member of the Oak roster, ranked second with a .667.

IRON-MAN STUNT

Al Mamau, former National league star, pitched two games in one day recently for the Newark Bears and allowed his opponents only eight hits in both games.

Whistling, Gum Chewing Taboo In City Office

DENVER, Aug. 2.—There'll be no Carusos developed out of the city manager of revenue's office in the near future—and no doughy Rufus will come forth therefrom, to proclaim his whistling proclivities to the town.

And there'll be no lovers' trysts by telephone, for Manager Clem Collins has decided that his office force is going to stay at that high pitch of efficiency to which he believes the taxpayers are entitled.

Here are the rules Manager Collins has promulgated:

No whistling, humming or singing during business hours.

No smoking while clerks are waiting on customers.

No phone calls during office hours, except on business.

No gum chewing and visiting back and forth among employees.

Avoid conversation of all kinds, except as pertains to business.

Be courteous and smiling.

ALCOHOL ATTACKED BY GERMAN BISHOP

BERLIN, Aug. 2.—A scathing censure of prevailing alcoholic abuses is contained in a pastoral which the bishops at conference in Fulda caused to be read from the pulpits of all Catholic churches in Germany recently.

In strong language the letter sets forth that fabulous sums are daily being squandered for alcoholic debauches and that alcohol has come to dominate all public festivities, club meetings, family parties, and even simpler forms of amusement on the Sabbath, and has frequently led to violent excesses.

It points out that "from all parts of Germany and all social spheres complaints are increasing about the rapid spread of the alcohol habit."

In recently published statistics on the startling increase of alcoholism a forecast must be seen of a life of misery for the masses.

THE BOOK OF KNOWLEDGE:

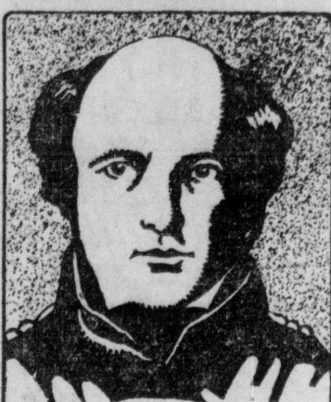

Sir John Franklin

SKETCHES BY BESSEY
SYNOPSIS BY BRAUCHER

By Special Permission of the Publishers of The Book of Knowledge. Copyright, 1923-26

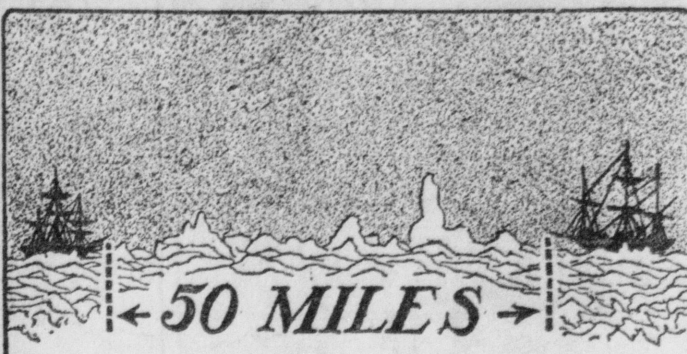

Ice had blocked William Parry's expedition after he had reached the Bering Sea, and the secret of the channel between Asia and America remained locked in its chilly grip. But of all the tragedies of the northern sea gates, that of Sir John Franklin and his men is perhaps the saddest failure recorded in that bleak land steeped in hero's deeds.

Franklin was a warrior, scientist and statesman. He had fought as a boy in the battle of Copenhagen and won honors at Trafalgar.

Franklin and Captain F. W. Beechey set out to prove the channel by sailing opposite directions until they should meet.

Franklin sailed northwest and Beechey pointed his ship northeast. Thus they sailed toward one another and it was their aim to join hands, thus establishing the channel. Only fifty miles separated the parties at the close, it was learned later, but ice prevented their meeting.

STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KNICK

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The Taffy Man looked over the crowd. Then Scouty said, "Are we allowed to look around? We promise we'll be careful as we can." Their new-found friend just laughed, and said, "Why, sure you can. Go right ahead. But now I've got to leave to put some taffy in the pan."

"Oh, where's the pan?" was Clowey cried. The Taffy Man said, "Right inside." And then he hurried through the door that led into his shack. "I cook my taffy here," said he. "Be quiet now, and all watch me." And soon the Taffies heard the taffy bubble, boil and crack.

"They watched it cook an hour or so. Their friend would often stop to show them how he'd drip it off the spoon to see if it was done. Then, when he took it from the flame, he said, 'I'm mighty glad you came. I'll let you Taffies help me pull. We'll all have lots of fun.'"

The old man perched upon a stool and waited for the stuff to cool. He then told all the Taffies they must grease their hands real well. Said he, "You'll have to pull it quick, 'cause if you don't the stuff will stick." And then he handed each a chunk. Wee Carp's almost fell.

The whole bunch then went out in front. Now, pulling taffy's quite a stunt. The Taffies found it harder than they ever thought would be. They pulled and pulled with all their might, and watched the candy grow real white. Then Coppy shouted, very loud, "Will someone please help me?"

My goodness, he was tangled bad, and all the taffy that he had was wrapped around his body, and as messy as could be. The Taffy Man went to his aid, and, as he said, "Don't be afraid," he tugged at Coppy's taffy till he turned the wee lad free.

HOW TO CUT CALORIES

Suppose you dine out every night (as many families do these days) at some of the many tea-rooms, home-cooking sort of little restaurants which have a family dinner from half a dollar to a dollar and a half, places so good and so cheap that many of us patronize them now, doing away with expensive servants and with hot and tiring late afternoon work.

You usually have a double choice on each course. Now, if you want to reduce, learn which are the non-fattening, or anyway, the least fattening articles. If you've a choice of thick soup or fruit or fruit cocktail just general health principles should make you choose the fruit. If it is a mixed fruit, don't eat the bananas and grapes in it; these are the most fattening of the fruits, though this is carrying the reducing idea rather far. But if you've a choice of thin or thick soup, always, invariably, take the thin one. A plate of thick soup is 125 calories, thin, 15. Thin vegetable soup will be just a trifle more.

Make a rule never to eat more than one slice of bread at a meal—and this without butter. You can comfort yourself by knowing that each slice you didn't eat is 100 calories and the large pat or ball of butter you don't eat, 100 to 125.

It's easier to do without bread when you do without butter, too. NO POTATOES! Eat the other vegetables. One very small potato is 100 calories—make it up with lettuce, or spinach or something of the sort.

Choice of meats then—no pork, ham, sausages, frankfurters ("hot dogs"), bacon nor the actual fat of any kind of meat. Fried meats are worse than boiled too, as boiling takes much from the food value. No mayonnaise on your salad when you come to a salad course—200 calories is the usual amount that goes on. Ask for vinegar instead. And go easy on deserts, of which we'll speak later.

R. S.—You can tint the stray white hairs by using a henna shampoo, and this will not change the natural shade of your hair; however, a girl of 19 who is having such an experience should not waste much time in any experiments. You may try a tonic for a time, such as the pilocarpine formula mentioned often in "Chats," but after a few months of this kind of personal treatment, if the hair continues to turn, you should have a first class scalp specialist care for the condition.

Don't Let Your Eyelids Become Droopy

BY MME. ANNE GERARDE
(For NEA Service)

The first sign of age in many women are eyelids that wrinkle and grow yellow or dark.

To freshen aging eyelids, massage gently with outward motion, using muscle oil. Daily treatment is necessary. After the massage, apply first cold and then hot compresses, as extreme in their temperature as possible, but of course do not burn the lids. Alternate several times.

Now take a bit of mentholated ointment on the finger tips and rub into the lids gently, keeping eyes shut tight so as not to get it into the eyes.

To get the greatest benefit from this treatment, you should lie down in a darkened room an hour if possible, with the ointment on your lids. If not possible to give this care in daytime, take just before going to bed at night.

Use Ingenuity For Pleasant Home Vacation

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
NEA Service Writer

It takes a woman's ingenuity to turn the everyday, workaday house into a vacation home. By vacation home I mean a place which looks a bit different. As there are many people who cannot get away for a breathing spell during hot weather, why not make the house look like some place else, so that coming back to it in September will be a complete change?

I have in mind three women who worked out their problems with the expenditure of very little money.

A Home-Made Pool
One of these women, with a family, got some stones from the foundation of a burned-down laundry, and with the help of her two boys and a day laborer, soon had a fair-sized, stone-lined swimming pool in the corner of the yard, with a pipe-line from the house. Besides that she had a rude pine table built around the single sycamore tree in the yard, set up an oil-stove nearby, cleverly hidden by the bushes, and thereafter nearly all the meals were cooked, and eaten outdoors. A green-painted lattice hid this miniature summer resort from the street.

Camouflage
Another woman, in an apartment, took up all her heavy rugs, put down a few small Chinese grass rugs that cost from fifty cents to a dollar apiece, covered the lights with Japanese lanterns, filled every available window with flower boxes, and turned her tiny sun-porch into a dining-room by painting a plain pine table and some chairs a cool green.

Still a third woman, with little more latitude, changed her house when hot days came, by moving all her heavy-looking furniture to an ample attic. Through the year

The Forward Look

TOMORROW'S telephone requirements must be foreseen today; the service of the future must be provided for in the present.

In the America of tomorrow new industries will develop, trade will increase, residential sections will replace the vacant areas of today. There must be new telephone buildings and switchboards; millions of miles of new wire and cable; yet a larger army of men and women to build and operate the ever increasing facilities; more and more trained executives to manage and direct.

It costs about $385,000,000 a year to keep ahead of America's demand for telephone service. If this vast sum is to be spent wisely and efficiently, future demands must be forecasted with as much precision as is humanly possible so that materials, money, manpower will not be lacking when the need comes. Only through the forward look is the telephone kept ready to meet the growing demands of a growing nation.

SEVERE DANGER OF MEASLES IN SUMMERTIME

NEW YORK, Aug. 2.—While measles is usually regarded as a "cold weather disease," and from the standpoint of the relative danger of catching it, this is true. Once the disease is contracted the greatest danger to the child's life is not during the cold months, but in the summer, for measles is most deadly when it is least prevalent. This is shown by an analysis of the case reports from 10 states during the five-year period, 1922-1926, made by the statistical bureau of a life insurance company.

Stating that, without exception, the late winter and spring months are the peak periods of measles prevalence, and that, with the coming of warmer weather, the case incidence invariably drops very sharply to a low point, which is reached in September, the report of the analysis continues: "But, once the disease is contracted the greatest danger to the child's life is not during the cold months, but in the summer-time; for this disease has the characteristics of being most deadly at the season when it is least prevalent. Uniformly a greater proportion of measles cases die in August and September than at any other time of the year."

"It is thus in the warm months that the obligation of the parents of an infected child is heaviest to safeguard that child's very life (and the lives of other children) by calling the doctor without delay and by following his directions; for the child's life at this point depends on the watchfulness and care of the parents in guarding against the serious pulmonary complications which terminate fatally so many cases of measles."

"Another contrast between maximum morbidity and lethality is in relation to age. The age of maximum prevalence of measles is the fifth year of life, but the age of maximum case-fatality is the first year. It is thus an important epidemiological characteristic of this disease that the greatest likelihood of dying from it (in early childhood, at least) is during infancy when there is least danger of contracting it. This does not mean that in adult life, however, for measles is then doubly serious."

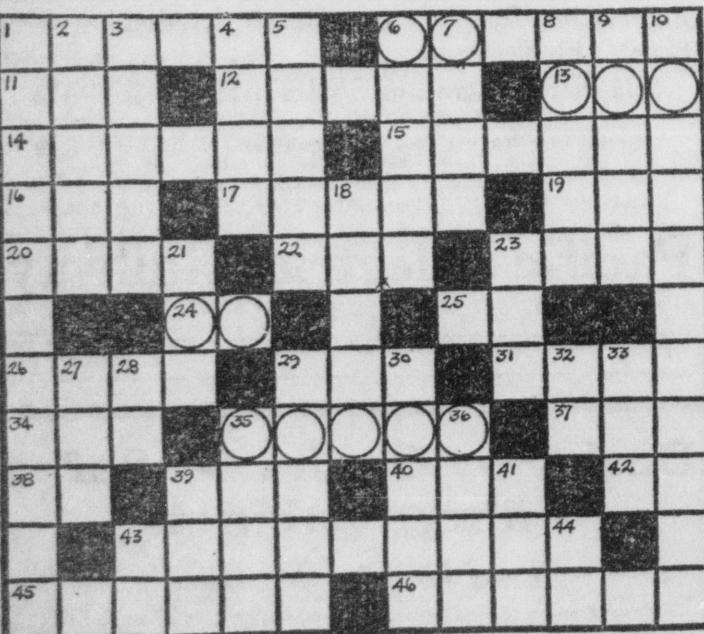

"But, regardless of age or season, the period of convalescence is the most important stage of measles. It is when the child is recovering that he is weakest from the malady's effects; it is then that pneumonia is most apt to set in, that the kidneys may be affected, and that acute nephritis, running later into chronic Bright's disease, may develop. The mortality from measles, uncomplicated, is not high at any age or season; it is the complications, especially bronchopneumonia, which makes it one of the most dreaded afflictions of childhood."

Old Obligation To King Is Kept

EDINBURGH, Aug. 2.—During the royal visit to Edinburgh this summer, there was presented to King George a silver ewer and basin and a damask napkin in fulfillment of an obligation imposed by King James V of Scotland. King James, the story goes, was in disguise near Crumond Brig, outside Edinburgh, when he was attacked by four or five assassins. Jack Houson, who was on a farm near by, went to the King's assistance and the ruffians were beaten off. As a reward the King gave the farm, which was crown property, to Houson on condition that he and his successors should be ready to present a ewer and basin for the king to wash his hands when his majesty should come to Holyrood or pass Crumond Brig. The ceremony was last performed over a hundred years ago in the time of George IV.

As they approached a pasture beyond the woods, they heard a man shouting and screaming as if in great agony. Just within the border of the forest, they found Elam Frye, who had been caught in the bear-trap he had attempted to set near the old horse that Nate Turner had shot. Both the man's arms were caught fast in the wicked jaws of the trap, and he could not release himself.

NEWS FROM ORANGE COUNTY

MERCHANTS OF H. B. MAY FORM ORGANIZATION

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 2.—Merchants and concessionaires of the city may form associations for the mutual benefit of the two branches of retailing, if suggestions made at the chamber of commerce meeting yesterday noon at the Rotary cafe, are carried out.

That merchants have problems and must arrive at solutions peculiar to the city in which they are located and can better solve their difficulties by organization, was the assertion of L. C. Denslow, chamber secretary.

The idea of organizing the merchants in one organization and the concessionaires in another was impressed upon Denslow at the recent school for secretaries held in Palo Alto.

Co-operation toward the California Valencia Orange show was voted.

BEACH CITY FINES AGGREGATE $3300.25

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Aug. 2.—Total fines collected during July amounted to $3,300.25, according to Judge Chris P. Pann. Of this amount, $1,233 was collected in the justice court, establishing a new record for that department. Former months have never run much over $250, according to Judge Pann. The increase is attributed to several liquor raids conducted during the month and the resultant fines against those convicted.

Of the recorder's fines, $618 was diverted to the general fund and $1,449.25 was turned over to the traffic fund.

The first fine in August was levied against H. L. McElroy, of Los Angeles, when a jury found him guilty of reckless driving yesterday morning. The fine assessed was $100.

BOXING EXHIBITIONS WILL BE PROHIBITED AT BEACH; COUNCIL REFUSES PERMIT

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 2.—The application of William Ponting for boxing exhibitions in Newport Beach was denied by the police commission upon recommendation of J. A. Winn, chief of police, last night at the meeting of the city council.

That the sentiment of the community as expressed to him appeared to be against such exhibitions and that such a concession would require police supervision which cannot be supplied with the present force, were the two principal objections to the request by Chief Winn.

Chief Winn will have a new automobile for police department use as a result of the recommendation made to the council. The council ordered an $1800 six-cylinder machine purchased.

Whether Chief Winn will receive an increase in salary from $3000 per year to $3600 per year as asked in a communication to the council will be determined by the council as a committee of the whole and the city auditor.

The committee of the whole will also consider the expenditure of $542 for two life saving dories recommended by Chief Winn.

Landing hours on the pier were recommended by Chief Winn to be from 6 a. m. to 4 p. m.

No longer will there be an Alvarado, Coronado, Adams and Palm streets in Newport Beach, as a result of action of the city council last night. Paul E. Krassey, city engineer, was instructed to change the names of those streets to Fourth, Third, Second and First streets, respectively. Other streets between Ninth street and Alvarado street will be numbered accordingly.

The council voted $500 to be used toward the purchase of a $2000 traffic signal device for installation at the intersection of Coast highway and Newport road over the recommendation of Norman Robotham. Robotham reported having conferred with Supervisor George Jeffrey regarding the problem. Jeffrey is understood to have said that the remaining $1500 could be obtained from other sources if the city would provide a fourth of the total cost. The device now on trial at the intersection is said to be unsound.

The request of the Newport Harbor Chamber of Commerce for $1523.50 to cover expenses from August 15 to September 15 was approved by the council. The items include special appropriations for an amateur swimming meet to be held September 10 and 11, and for the Labor Day celebration.

Frank Crocker, fire chief, was assured by official action of the board of the approval of any aid he may find it necessary to render neighboring communities in case of a serious blaze.

A control system is to be installed at the camp ground to afford a complete check on funds received.

C. F. Jennings, of Balboa Island, asked the council to recommend a remedy for the disintegration of the sea wall in front of his lot and the consequent washing away of his property by high tides. The matter was referred to the city engineer for recommendation.

J. M. Barlow, proprietor of the roller skating rink, which was removed recently following complaint to its noise, was refunded $75 which he had paid in rent for the use of the lot the rink was on.

Inadequate lighting facilities on the ocean front between Twenty-first street and Twenty-second street was the subject of a petition submitted to the council for consideration. The matter was referred to the street superintendent.

The committee on tideland leases asked another week before making a report. The request was granted.

NEW OIL TEST PLANNED FOR NEWPORT AREA

NEWPORT BEACH, Aug. 2.—The exasperating showings in the Newport Beach district, which seem to beckon oil operators to further tests but never to grant them much more than the smell of oil, have lured another big company to try its luck there, and perhaps this may be the well that will definitely find the elusive fluid which many operators are still certain is to be found somewhere around Newport Beach.

The new prospect is the Pan American Petroleum company, which is preparing to start a well about one-half mile from the shallow heavy gravity wells that have been producing asphalt and road oil in the city of Newport Beach with more or less regularity for several years. It is understood that the Doherty interests have tied up several hundred acres in that district and will drill a hole deep enough to settle once for all the question of what that particular area has or has not got.

TUSTIN VALUES STABLE

Progress is the watchword in Tustin as in other Orange county communities. The old is making way for the new at such a rapid rate that the old timers can hardly believe their eyes.

Approximately $100,000 will be invested in the land and improvements of the southwest corner of Main street and the State highway. Incidentally, the owner is a Los Angeles capitalist, which indicates what outsiders think of Tustin. Men with money are not in the habit of throwing it away, and the fact that the owner of the site plans to spend a large sum there certainly shows that he figures that Tustin will continue to grow and prosper.

The increase in value of the property involved is indicative of the increases all over the county. Bought years ago for a few hundred dollars, the site alone is now valued at something like $50,000. Inquiry will show that increases in value are the rule and not the exception throughout this district.

SPIRITUAL FORCES

Two sentences from Ambassador Herrick's foreword to "We," Lindbergh's book about his flight, are of particular interest.

"For I feel with every fibre of my being that Lindbergh's landing here marked one of the supreme moments in the history of America and France and the faith we have in the deciding power of spiritual things is strengthened by every circumstance of his journey."

Again, comparing Lafayette and Lindbergh: "Both arrived at the critical moment and both set in motion those imponderable forces which escape the standard of the politician's mind."

"The deciding power of spiritual things," and "those imponderable forces" are undoubtedly tremendously important in human life and progress. We know less about them than about aviation and radio, and much of the time we seem to care less about them. We leave them to sentimentalists and dreamers, so we think.

What our progress might be in better human relations and in spiritual achievement, if we took more account of those intangible forces, cannot be estimated. Down in our hearts we must know it would be great.

BRAINS AND CHARACTER

Says Dr. Frederick Tilney of Columbia University, a foremost authority on the human brain:

"There can be little doubt that the progress of humanity has run parallel with the growth of the brain. From one race to another and from one race to the next, man has shown a steady gain in his power to control material conditions. Where he has stood still or perhaps even fallen behind is in learning to control his own nature."

This is coming to be an old story among those who thoughtfully consider the progress of the human race. Mentally, intellectually, man makes great progress. Morally he makes less. We grow in mind rather than in character. Science outstrips morality. Thus we have the familiar phenomenon of using our highest mental and scientific gains for war and destruction instead of the peaceful, constructive, co-operative advance of humanity.

Brains without character, as far as the genuine improvement of the race is concerned, may be better than no brains at all. If a man has better brains than the animals, and uses them for no higher purposes than the animals do, is he any better than they are? Or as good?

OUR NURSERY INDUSTRY

Of the millions and millions of California's fertile acres, just 4000 are devoted to nurseries according to the report of the superintendent of nursery service for the state department of agriculture released for publication a few days ago. Nurserymen to the number of 1629 are registered this year while in 1926 the number was but 1028.

Growing of nursery stock is one of Orange county's numerous minor industries. Not only is there a steady call for citrus and avocado stock for planting in Orange county, but our nurseries send large quantities of young trees to other counties.

A revenue of approximately $3,000,000 annually is reaped in this state by the nursery industry. Compared to what it no doubt will be in the future, as demands from other sections increase for California-produced plants this is small indeed.

SCHOLARSHIP AND SCRIPTURE

What literate person, among English-speaking people, is not familiar with those majestic words which begin the King James Bible—

"In the beginning God created the heaven and the earth. And the earth was without form and void; and darkness was upon the face of the deep. And the spirit of God moved upon the face of the waters. And God said, Let there be light; and there was light. And God saw that the light was good."

Now comes a Chicago group of translators, giving us the same passage thus:

"When God began to create the heavens and the earth, the earth being a desolate mass, with darkness covering the abyss and the spirit of God hovering over the waters, then God said: 'Let there be light;' and God said that the light was good." The version from which this is taken is represented as more "accurate and scholarly" than the old one. It may be. But what Bible readers want, along with a reasonable degree of fidelity to the original text, is language suited to the theme, showing forth the power and glory of God.

Why muddle so much with the grand old King James Bible? In it, the flesh and blood of the great English language at its best have been mingled with the religious emotions and aspirations of the race for more than three centuries.

The translators who left their imprint on that version were poets and preachers of the Word, as well as scholars. They made a great book of literature along with their translation—greater, as some authorities declare, than the original Bible.

They knew that they were dealing not with mere dictionaries and grammars, but with a work of power. They understand human nature, and the potency of words and phrases and deep-rooted idioms to waken in human hearts the emotions expressed by inspired writers. They knew that there are more important things in literature, religion and life than mere "accuracy and scholarship."

Now a Governor's Cabinet

Fresno Republican

Today the state passes under the operation of a multitude of new laws—that is some 898.

That is apparently a large number, even if not as large as after certain other legislative terms.

But as has been pointed out, this number does not mean anything like it sounds. Most of these new laws do not constitute new rules of action for citizens. The most of them relate only to specific instances, or to specific officials or places. And the rest, even where they affect a large number of citizens, are modifications of old laws necessary to bring them up to present acceptable practice.

Of all the work done by the last legislature, which now goes into effect, none should be of more constructive value than the centralization and organization of the state departments under the governor.

Mr. Young is given, largely through the work of some of his predecessors and partly through his own admonishing of the Legislature, a central group of officers through whom he can draw or slacken the reins of state administration.

This dozen members of his cabinet present to him a unique opportunity. Much will be expected of it, perhaps too much. The governor has always had the personal opportunity to convene as many citizens together to advise him as he might choose. But he has not had any written authority to direct certain officials to assemble for consultation purposes. Now he has this authority. He can select his chiefs of administration not alone with regard to their executive ability, but in view of their worth as counselors. He can judge them with regard to their ability to work together for the good of the state and the administration. And through them he can demand that the whole executive machinery of the state be tactically arranged for their best good.

This presents a vision of the massed force of the state powers for state advance that is inspiring.

It's Forty But No More

Fresno Republican

If some of our traffic authorities are to be taken literally, the new speed limit law means exactly nothing at all.

Since this, like many other laws, is in its effect a sort of curious cross between literal terms, interpretation and convenience of enforcement, they may be exactly right.

The former law puts 35 miles an hour as the speed limit. The new law, presumptively, raises it from 35 to 40.

But the traffic officers tell us that the old law did not mean 35 miles an hour. But that the new law does mean 40 miles, which it says.

This rather peculiar form of logic is explained as follows. The old law said 35 miles, but there was about five miles an hour grace given. While there will be no grace given under the new law. That is, the officers under the old law were kindly or lax or accommodating to the extent of five miles an hour. But this they will be no more. According to their judgment, 35 miles an hour was too harsh, so they read it 40. And evidently they think that 40 miles an hour is quite lenient enough.

So, woe to the unlucky wight that "opens her up" to a naked 41 miles. The ticket for him.

For all that, we are for the speed cops. Their discretion, impartially applied, is worth much more for the regulation of the highways than is the literal interpretation of any law by a legislature that is afraid to stand by its own laws and so applies penalties to speed cops and courts that may or may not have experience in the handling of traffic.

EXPERIMENTS ON RATS PROVE VIGOR FOODS WORTHLESS

In an attempt to determine the various factors that modify the vigor of an individual, workers in the laboratory of the department of physiology of the Ohio State university have conducted a series of experiments during the past three years.

The tests have been made on white rats in small house cages with which were connected revolving cylinders. In these rats could exercise at any time they felt the notion. The revolutions of the cylinders were automatically recorded.

The observations made upon hundreds of rats indicated that the energy expenditure in running these cylinders serves as a rather accurate criterion of the animals' tendency to exercise.

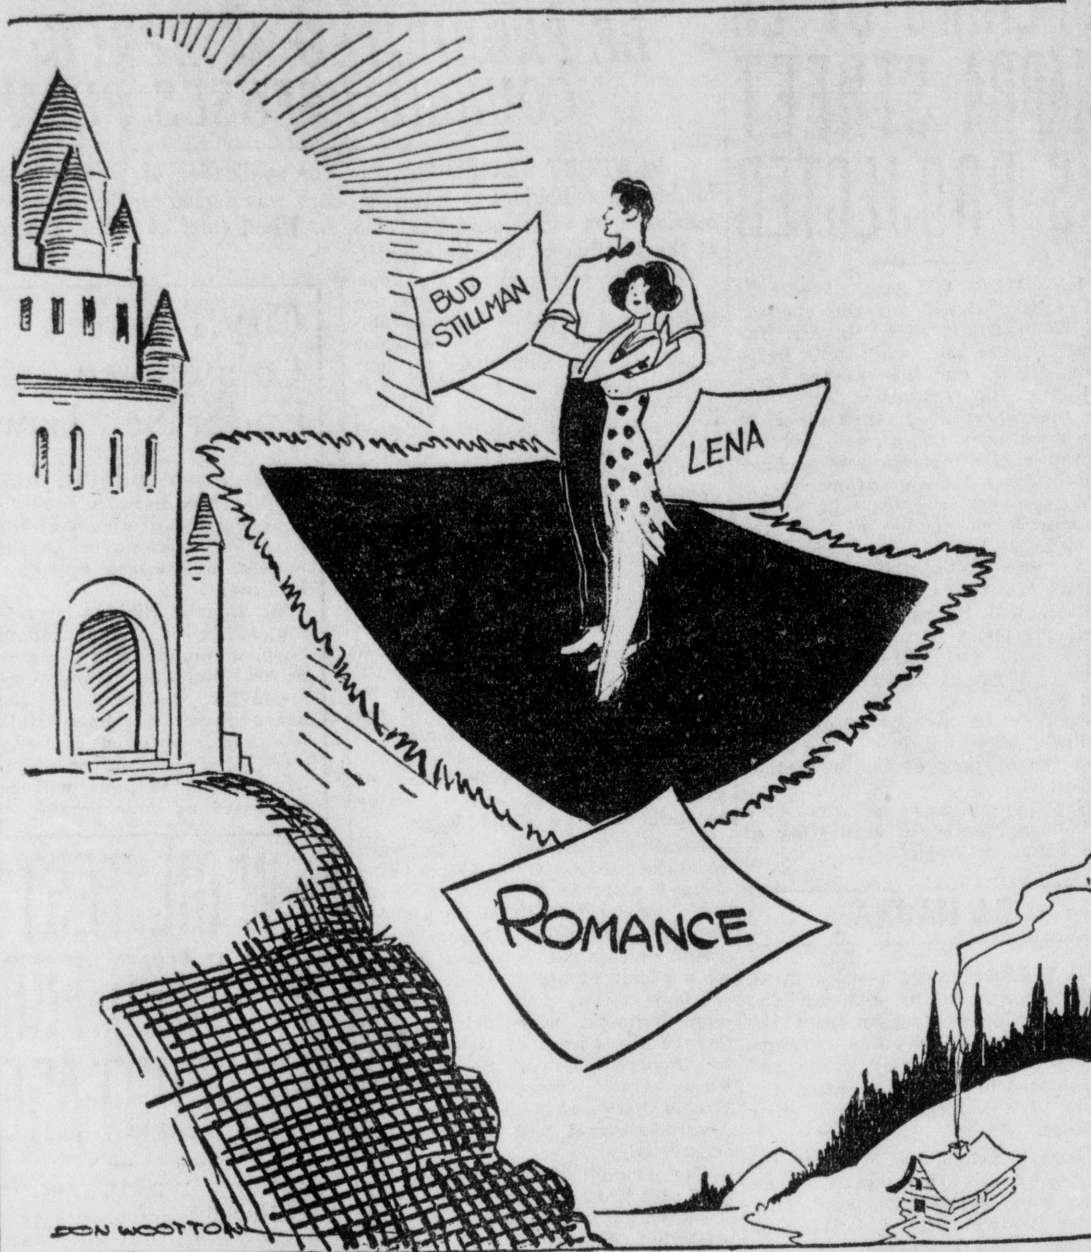

The studies revealed that the animals, like human beings, differ greatly as to the times they choose to exercise, the amount of exercise they may take at any given period, and the effects of light and all sorts of environmental factors on the amount of their exercise.

Special studies were made on all of the organs of the body to find out their importance in relation to the factors commonly understood under the word "vigor."

It was found that the thyroid and parathyroid were not directly concerned in the production of vigor, since removal of these glands from the body or the feeding of the glandular extract did not materially affect the animals' exercise. Removal of some of the adrenal glands above the kidneys had a definite effect in producing weakness, the capacity of the muscles being reduced to one-sixteenth of the normal, but feeding of extracts of these glands did not have any beneficial effect on the animals' activity.

Here is scientific evidence as to the lack of any reasonable basis for the use of any of the preparations of the glands of various types that are sold with the claim that they will restore vim, vigor and vitality.

Ignorance Inexcusable

Pasadena Star-News

The least excusable thing in the United States today is ignorance. It is inexcusable because the means of education are within the reach of all. There are the public schools, not only inviting boys and girls, but by law compelling them to attend some school. There are parish schools. And private schools almost without number. There are colleges, universities and technical schools. There are educational institutions on every hand. There are night schools, as well as day schools. There are schools for adults, as well as for children.

And as for self-education, the means are at hand all around. There are public libraries, with a wealth of books and magazines accessible to the poorest and humblest. There are newspapers—typical American newspapers are educative. They contain, besides the news of the day—a current history of the world—they contain much miscellaneous matter, informative and inspirational. The studious reader of the newspapers is acquiring a liberal education.

Ignorance is wholly without excuse in this land. No matter how poor, humble or unfortunate one may be, the means of enlightenment are at hand. The millions in this country who are benighted and rest under the dark pall of ignorance, may drink freely of the fountain of knowledge. There is no bar to them in lifting themselves out of the bogs of ignorance.

Worth While Verse

A FINE NIGHT IN WINTER

This night of sweet perfumed air
Should not have fallen to December's share.
This is such sweetness as young April breathes
When violet-girdled spring her garland wreathes
When wall flowers crowd the borders, and in the sun
Hyacinth bells are opening one by one,
And tulip buds are red-stained at the tips,
And pear trees are like full rigged sailing ships—

In such a place, on such a day stood I,
And watched fine weather walking in the sky.
Through pearly clouds threaded the azure day
And winter seemed a thousand years away.

Here are no flowers, and overhead I see
The quick stars leaping in a leafless tree—
Not to December's iron share
This night of perfumed air!

Little Benny's Note Book

by Lee Pape

My sister Gladdis was reading this afternoon and she suddenly felt like eating cherries at the same time, and I went up to the fruit store to get her 15 cents worth, partly to be obliging and partly on account of feeling like cherries myself, and I came back with them saying, How many do you think the fruit lady gave me for 15 cents, Gladdis?

Never mind starting any guessing contests, hand the bag over, Gladdis sed.

Well anyway I know exactly how many she gave me because I counted them. I sed, and Gladdis sed, How could you count them while she was putting them in the bag, did she drop them in one by one like precious stones?

No, she dumped them in all at once as if they was something useless, I sed. I counted them on the way home by undumping them in my pocket and then putting them back back in the bag, I sed, and Gladdis sed, O my stars, have you been fingering every cherry in the bag, now I suppose I'll have to wash them before I eat them.

Well do you want to know how many she gave you for 15 cents, I sed, and Gladdis sed, No, and I sed, Well I'll tell you, she gave you exactly 33, do you want to know exactly how I found out?

No, Gladdis sed, and I sed, Well I'll tell you, I ate every third one while I was putting them back in the bag, and then I multiplied the number I ate by 3 and that made exactly 33 because I ate exactly 11 not counting one extra one that I had to eat to make it come out even.

And I quick dropped the bag in her lap and wawked out, and she was so comfortable with her book she didn't chase me, only I heard her calling sarcastic remarks after me till I was all a ways out of the house, being as soon as possible.

ZONING FOR THE PAST

How Can a Zoning Ordinance Affect What Already Has Been Done in City Development?

Zoning ordinances—in all but a very few special instances—undertake only to control future development. If there is a storage or a garage or a filling station or a certain residential district when the zoning ordinance is adopted, it can stay there. Only, if the building is destroyed by fire, let us say, it may not be rebuilt in that zone. Such is the ordinary usage. This does not mean that the courts would not permit retroactive zoning in some circumstances, but merely that the usual practice of American cities has been to apply the restrictive provisions of zoning ordinances to buildings erected in the future.

Because of this fact we frequently hear the objection that is so commonly heard in such cities as Cleveland and Youngstown just now where zoning ordinances are being considered; the objection that zoning may be all right for new areas but ought not to be applied to built-up sections. Youngstown failed in zoning once because of the non-comprehensive character of the effort. You will not hear such objections in cities where zoning has been in effect—as for instance in the neighboring Ohio cities of Akron and Cincinnati.

How, if the ordinance applies only to the future, can zoning have any effect on the past—what influence can it have on the old and built-up sections of the city?

As a matter of fact some of the most beneficial results from zoning are felt in the older sections of the city.

Take, for instance, the section of town which nearly any city can show you that was once a good residential section, that is now run-down at the heels, that is neither good for residences because of changed social conditions nor for business because business hasn't quite reached the section. What happens? It gets dingier and dingier; the rents do not justify maintenance; the future character of the section is undermined and nobody will invest in new building there. What is it? Slums, a blighted district, a social canker, an economic disaster.

Zoning will tend to determine the future use of such land and encourage its development along that line.

Let me give two instances from my own experience in zoning Washington. A certain section just northwest of the White House and masked from general observation by its concealment behind the "front" of two principal avenues, was a miserable collection of hovels. Nobody knew what would be the future of that section and it was tumbling into ruin. We zoned it as "residential, commercial," a designation that would permit light manufacturing, automobile service and repair shops, public garages, etc. Within a year that blighted section had taken on new life, and now, after seven years, it is almost entirely covered by new buildings and is anything but dead.

There was another section lying west of the White House and bordering on Potomac park near the Lincoln Memorial. It was a fairly good residential district before the Civil war, but had been blighted for nearly a half century by the fact that nobody could tell what would become of it. Its few good residences were lost among the hundreds of decaying houses, and here and there was a laundry or some such establishment.

There was no transportation so that the section was not adaptable for industrial uses, even if the future use of such land and encourage its development along that line.

Winter Bedtime

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

In the colder climates, when the animals are unable to get their accustomed food and have not learned to store their winter's supply, as does the squirrel for instance, they withdraw to shelters beyond the reach of frost, and sleep, or hibernate, till spring. The bear chooses a den or hollow tree, angle worms burrow below the frost line, frogs burrow into the mud of a stream bed and the insect pupae lie in cocoons or earthen casings. We do not know just the nature of this dormancy, but it seems to be little different from ordinary sleep, except in its soundness and prolonged season. Some animals, like the bat, the chipmunk and some bears, are light sleepers, coming out on warm days. Others, like the woodchuck, enter a sleep as near death as possible and cannot be awakened. A woodchuck can be rolled about and will not waken, for his senses are so fast asleep for this period that he fails to respond to stimuli.

MOTHER Woodchuck, with a shiver,
Drew her furs around her tighter
As the North Wind came a-swooping
O'er the hill and tried to bite her.
"My," she said, "I hadn't noticed
That most all the leaves have fallen,
It's quite time our chucky children
For their winter's nap I'm calling!"
So the children all came running
When they heard the "Come Here" whistle.
Made their beds deep in a sand bank,
Out of leaves and down to thistle.
At the brook they washed their faces,
Cleaned their teeth (they must have, surely)
And rolled up tight in furry robes
To sleep till spring, securely.
